4 PER CENT MAXIMUM

U. S. Authorizes Hike In Interest On Bank Savings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's banks were authorized tonight to pay up to 4 per cent interest on some savings deposits.

Announced reasons for the move were to "increase freedom of competition" and help the country's balance of payments situation. The 4 per cent maximum will be effective Jan. 1 on all savings and time deposits left in the banks for one year or more. For the past five years, the maximum had been 3 per cent.

The action was announced jointly by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. It will apply to more than 13,000 banks within the jurisdiction of those agencies.

EXPLAINS MOVE

In a statement explaining its move, the Federal Reserve Board said the 4 per cent rate would permit commercial banks to compete more effectively for savings deposits. They will now be in a position to match, in some cases, the generally higher interest rates that have been offered by savings and loan associations.

In addition, the board said, banks will be able to "to compete more vigorously to retain foreign deposits that might otherwise move abroad in search of higher returns and thereby intensify an outflow of capital or gold to other countries."

The treasury issued a statement applauding the higher maximum rate, saying it will accomplish in part the Kennedy administration's objective to attract and

Education's Need Cited In Space Race

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer
RUSTON — Education will spell the difference between Communism and the free world, Maj. Gen. John S. Hardy declared here Friday as the Aerospace Education Symposium concluded.

While a panel placed heavy emphasis on the training of engineering students in the development of America's space program, Gen. Hardy warned: "The balance between the dark and the evil forces of Communism and our world of freedom and decency will be tipped by education."

MAIN SPEAKER

Gen. Hardy, commander of the Keesler Technical Training Center at Biloxi, was the principal speaker on the second day of the symposium, sponsored by the Air Force Association and Louisiana Tech.

While he stressed changes in the education system, a panel of top men in the science field agreed that a continuation of training in basic mathematics on the college level would advance the space program further than a specialized curriculum in aeronautics.

"The space age is really not something new," commented Paul E. Purser, special assistant to the director at the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center, Langley AFB, Hampton, Va.

Speaking on the Tech campus to an audience largely comprised of college students, he added, "The space age is an extension of the basic laws of nature. The basic fundamentals that are being taught in institutions like Louisiana Tech are what we need."

Panel moderator James H. Straubel, executive director of the Air Force Association, tossed out a question on whether colleges should offer degrees in space engineering.

"I think space is entirely too broad to be encompassed in any one degree," replied R. A. McElvogue, general manager of Thiokol Chemical Corp., Marshall, Tex.

But he added, "There might possibly be room for a degree in space aeronautics for people who might run moon stations. Perhaps Shepherd should be called aeronautical engineer."

In a question and answer period.

Solons Will Probe Polk Complaints Visit Is Planned By Congressmen In Near Future

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—A Texas Congressman said Friday he will probably visit Ft. Polk to probe complaints of Army reservists here who claim their call to active duty was unnecessary.

They are contributing a great deal more to their country than they realize," Rep. Joe M. Kilgore, D-Tex., said in Washington. "But nevertheless, I want to visit Ft. Polk to look into their complaints."

PLANS VISIT

Kilgore said he and other Congressmen probably will visit Polk in about two weeks.

Meanwhile, an Army spokesman said most of the 80 soldiers who signed a letter protesting their recall were "filler" reservists.

The letter, made public Friday, went to Kilgore. Copies were mailed to President Kennedy, the secretary of defense, and several newspapers.

Maj. James E. Vance, 49th Division Information Officer, said a breakdown of the list of names had not been made yet. But from a look at the names, he said he knew most of the signers were not members of the division's National Guard unit.

"Filler" is an Army term to describe an individual reservist brought in to boost a division to full strength. The 49th, an armored unit numbering about 9,000, had to add some 4,000 reservists when it was activated to swell to full division size.

The disgruntled enlisted men said in their letter they want out because they feel there was no emergency. They criticized the growing of draft calls and said they have prior service while there are those at home who have never been called.

Vance said the Army called reservists because it needed trained men.

Vance quoted Maj. Gen. Harley B. West, division commander, as saying the letter was not representative of the entire post of 10,000.

MAY EXCEED $1 MILLION

Brothers Accused Of Embezzlement

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP)—Two prominent savings association officials were arrested Friday, charged with embezzlement, which the FBI thinks may total more than $1 million.

Quickly released on $5,000 bonds were Joseph J. Chilla Jr., 33, board chairman and loan officer of Liberty Savings & Loan Association in neighboring Whiting, and his brother, Benedict A. 45, secretary-treasurer.

Allan Gillies, FBI special agent in Indianapolis, said the brothers had maintained a secret ledger, dating back at least to 1939, keeping tab on certain accounts which were not run through regular office records.

Gillies said the secret accounts could cost the association more than $1 million and represent about one-seventh of the firm's total deposits.

U. S. Blasts Red China In U. N. Debate

Stevenson Says Seating Would Be Disastrous

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson Friday denounced Communist China as a reckless, brutal power threatening perhaps the very survival of mankind. He declared that to eat Peiping in the United Nations could shake world confidence in the organization.

The chief U.S. delegate spoke in the U.N. General Assembly after Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, called for immediate seating of Communist China and expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists.

SOVIET WALKOUT

He upheld Peiping's right to crush the Nationalist regime on Taiwan by military might.

The two big powers clashed on the opening day of a historic debate on the Chinese representation issue.

In a gesture of contempt, the entire Soviet bloc walked out of the crowded blue and gold assembly hall when Tingfu T. Tsiang, veteran Chinese Nationalist diplomat, took the rostrum.

Stevenson accused the Chinese Communists of operating training camps for young guerrillas from Asia, Africa and Latin America so they can spark revolutions in their homeland by sabotage and violence.

He said that expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists would be taken by Peiping as signifying U.N. approval to launch an attack on Formosa, that would be "a massive resort to arms as the world has witnessed since the end of World War II."

"In its present mood," said Stevenson of the Peiping regime, "it is a massive and brutal threat to man's struggle to better his lot in his own way—and even, perhaps, to man's very survival. Its gigantic power, its reckless ambition, and its unconcern for human life."

City To Ask Court Ban On 'Riders'

McCOMB, Miss. (AP)—Mayor C. H. Douglas and other city officials said Friday they would ask for a federal court injunction to prevent the influx of more "Freedom Riders" into the explosive McComb bus station.

They said they would ask that the injunction be directed against the Congress of Racial Equality, Douglas met with Asst. City Atty. W. A. Wiltshire, and Selectmen Sam N. Alford and Charles B. Gordon.

They said, "There is now apparently an organized effort by CORE and its agents to break down peace and order in McComb by sending waves of groups purporting to be interstate travelers to the bus terminal here."

"The fact has already been established that McComb authorities will not violate the injunction of the federal court that the city must not perform any acts to coerce or enforce segregation in interstate terminals."

"However, we feel that the city cannot sit by and let CORE endanger the citizenry of McComb under a fictitious cover of interstate travel."

"We feel that this is an intended publicity play by CORE and can only be done at the expense of the city of McComb."

All savings are insured by the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp.

Benedict Chilla was charged with false entry in his report to the board of directors Oct. 31 that the savings accounts totaled $6,803,014. Gillies said secret ledger accounts were not included.

The older brother was specifically charged with embezzling $3,000 loan payment made by a borrower Sept. 20, 1960.

Gillies said the secret ledger was discovered during a routine audit by examiners for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. The FBI investigation is to continue.

Neville Edges Jennings

Tigers Win 14-7, Reach 'AA' Finals

By RICK BRYAN
Morning World Sports Editor
BULLDOG STADIUM, JENNINGS—Neville struck with lightning swiftness for two first-quarter touchdowns, then held off a courageous Jennings team that simply refused to quit to win a Class AA semi-final football game 14-7 before an over-flow crowd of 4,500 here last night.

Tiger halfback Don Brant took the opening kickoff at the Neville six and sliced up the middle through an opening, then veered to his right to scamper 60 yards, all the way down to the Jennings 34.

IN EIGHT PLAYS

From here it took the swift Bengals only eight plays to score. Fullback Ralph Roberts blasted into the end zone from a foot out for the touchdown and halfback Jimmy Howard teed the point after, putting Neville in front 7-0 with 10:09 to play in the quarter.

A 14-yard Howard burst to the Jennings 13 was the big play of the drive.

The Tigers got the ball again at the Jennings 49 after a short kick by Bulldog tailback Ken Cormier and sliced for their second TD in seven plays.

Little Roberts, playing a whale-of-a-game at fullback, powered the drive with three beautiful runs and quarterback Jerry Jones raced the last six yards.

Taking the ball to his left on a keeper play, Jones got a good block from tackle Bob Duncan and shot in to score untouched. Azam Howard kicked good, and it was Neville 14-0 with 0:23 left in the period.

Jennings returned the following kickoff to its 28 and opened up with the same attack that dropped Pineville last week to go 7-2. Jennings won 14-7.

Operating out of a spread, Canine star Cormier alternated his running with a deadly passing attack that got the Tigers off balance and kept them that way.

Cormier completed three of three heaves to put the ball on Neville's 15, then rammed across on four straight bull-like rushes, the last was three yards and was around left end with three Jennings blockers paying the way.

Lake Charles Bank Shortage Brings Charge

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Edwin Anderson Vincent, 38-year-old assistant cashier at the Gulf National Bank, was held Friday night after a shortage of about $206,000 was discovered in his accounts.

Sam Richard, president of the bank, said any loss to depositors was covered by insurance.

The loss was discovered Thursday morning when auditors worked on Vincent's books during a routine audit.

Vincent was arrested later in the day and put in the parish jail for investigation. FBI agents filed a complaint Friday before U. S. Commissioner Edgar F. Barnett charging Vincent with one count of false entry amounting to $81,000.

Vincent appeared before Barnett Friday night and his bond was set at $50,000, which he was unable to post.

Richard said Vincent had admitted a shortage in his accounts but did not name a specific amount.

The impending end of college football competition for the year raises the question: What do drum major outfits do in the off-season?

Many a husband whose daily job consists of pushing a button complains because his wife makes a cake out of packaged mix.

FBI Agents Nab Woman For Threats

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—After months of dogged detective work, the FBI charged a woman Friday with threatening the lives of U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Sylvia Betty Vale, 45, a Baltimore housewife and mother of three, admitted at her arraignment she had written the letters.

"I didn't mean any of it," she told U.S. Commissioner Ernest C. Volkart, who ordered her held on $1,000 bond.

Edward J. Powers, agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the FBI, said more than 60,000 entries in a crossword puzzle contest conducted by the Baltimore News-Post were screened by hand writing experts.

The News-Post had received letters to the editor, bearing fictitious names, which aroused suspicion. The FBI, working in the News-Post office, screened incoming correspondence for six months, then matched handwriting on a letter with an entry in the puzzle contest which gave Mrs. Vale's name and address.

Mrs. Vale was charged with writing in September of 1957 a letter addressed to "Governor Muskie of Maine, New England," which was signed "Germania R."

A letter to University Hospital in Baltimore the same month complained of having to sit with Negroes in the hospital reception room. It was signed "Joe."

The letter threatening the life of the attorney general was written in May 1961, and was addressed to "The Chief of the FBI"

AT CAPE CANAVERAL

Enos Will Undergo Thorough Checkup

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Space traveler Enos, a monkey the whole thing—was whisked off to Cape for a battery of physical and lever-pressing tests.

Careful study of the chimp and his space capsule will determine whether the United States will push ahead with a crash program to put a man in orbit this year.

There are indications — but no official word—that this program is under way. But it could be delayed by an unfavorable report from animal or spaceship.

The capsule arrived back here Thursday and technicians were examining it minutely. They concentrated on the vehicle's cooling and control systems, which malfunctioned during the flight and forced Project Mercury officials to bring Enos back to earth after a brief meeting with the intended three.

But Henry said extensive examination is needed to uncover possible unpleasant after-effects. And after a brief meeting with the intended three.

Violation Of Registration Act Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party of the United States was indicted by a federal grand jury Friday on charges of failing to register with the government as a Soviet-controlled organization.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy announced the 12-count indictment moments after it was returned in U.S. District Court here.

SWIFT ACTION

Moving swiftly after the passage of the midnight Thursday deadline for registration by party officers, the grand jury accused the party itself of violating the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950.

The deadline for registration by the party—as distinguished from its officers—had passed on Nov. 20.

The Justice Department, however, decided to wait until after the later officers' deadline before taking action against the party.

There is still a third deadline—Dec. 20—for registration by individual party members.

The maximum penalty for violation is a $10,000 fine for each day the party fails to register, identify its officers, and give the government the details of its financial operations.

The same penalty—plus five years in prison—is provided for each day of violation by an individual.

The indictment set up the possibility of another long court battle. Only last June 5, the Supreme Court ended a 10-year civil case by voting 5-4 that the party must register under the law.

Kennedy said the Justice Department has not yet determined what form prosecution of the officers might take.

Rocket Test For Saturn 5 Years Off

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The space agency said Friday it expects to launch a nuclear rocket as an upper stage of a Saturn space vehicle in about five years.

The nuclear stage, known as the reactor-in-flight test (Rift), will be built at NASA's Michoud plant at New Orleans.

Rift will be powered by the Nerva nuclear engine now being developed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it would accept proposals to build Rift on Dec. 7. Twenty-nine firms were invited to bid for the prime contract.

The invitation did not include work on the nuclear engine itself, which is being developed by the Los Alamos scientific laboratory, an element of the Atomic Energy Commission.

NASA said that only the carrier will be built at the Michoud plant. No contractor for the engine has been selected.

NASA said the Rift vehicle eventually will be launched in the 1966-67 period as an upper stage of a Saturn rocket.

In the Rift program, the Kiwi reactor engine is now undergoing tests at the AEC's Nevada test site.

A space vehicle using nuclear reactors would need only a few pounds of continuing thrust to gain fantastic speeds and scientists have said such a system is necessary if earth men are ever to travel in space.

in New York had no immediate comment on the indictment. There were some indications that the action is driving the party's activities underground although it has not been technically outlawed.

A Justice Department spokesman said copies of Friday's indictment would be served on two attorneys, Joseph Forer of Washington and John J. Abt of New York.

These two were identified as counsel for the party in a letter in which the party advised the Justice Department it would not comply with the law.

The letter—which was unsigned—said compliance with the 1950 law would constitute self-incrimination and expose the registrants to prosecution under the Smith Act which makes it a crime to belong to a party advocating violent overthrow of the government.

That the Communist party meets this definition was established in trials and convictions of several top Communist leaders.

Atty. Gen. Kennedy, in a statement accompanying the indictments, said the Communist party had made drastic changes in its organizational set-up in apparent preparation for the expected court battles to come. He noted it has reduced the number of its national officers to three, eliminated dues payments in some areas and greatly reduced frequency of local meetings.

From a wartime peak of about 50,000 party membership is believed to have dwindled to about 10,000 now.

A Communist party spokesman confirmed Thursday that the number of national officers had been reduced to three. But he would not name the three nor say how many there had been before reorganization.

The Justice Department declined also to say who it regards as the present top officers of the party. But the Chicago American reported Claude Lightfoot, a former Communist official, identified them as:

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, chairman; Gus Hall, general secretary; and Benjamin Davis, national secretary. All are New York City residents.

The attorney general in his statement emphasized that neither the Subversive Activities Control Act nor the Supreme Court decision requiring registration under the act outlawed the Communist party, U.S.A.

He continued, "The Subversive Activities Control Act found that the party is a Communist action organization, substantially controlled, dominated and directed by the Soviet Union and therefore is required to register with the government."

"Such registration is not unusual," as the attorney pointed out in its decision. Registration is required in a number of fields, including the sale of securities, establishment of welfare and pension funds, campaign contributions and lobbying.

"Since 1938, agents of foreign governments or other foreign principals including American citizens have been required to register with the Department of Justice. At present, there are nearly 400 active registrants and there have been more than 1,500 since 1938."

"Many Americans, including respected individuals and law firms, have registered and obeyed these laws. The Communist party, U.S.A., has refused to obey the law. It is our responsibility to enforce the law."

Body Of Mental Patient Found In Mississippi

MERIDIAN, Miss. (UPI)—The mystery of the "Wild Man of Lost Gap" ended Thursday night when a group of hunters found the bearded body of a 35-year-old mental patient.

Deputy Sheriff Alton Allen said the man, James M. Mathis, apparently died sometime early this week under a rural bridge north of here. He was lying on a pallet of straw, wearing only a shirt and shoes.

The man—whose appearance in the area recently had founded reports of a giant more than six feet tall weighing over 200 pounds and wearing only a shirt—was six feet tall.

But he weighed only a scrawny 125 pounds when discovered. He had a bag of tobacco and a sack of seeds beside his body. A coroner's jury ruled he died of natural causes.

Each bank will have to decide for itself whether to raise its rates in line with the new maximums. The Federal Reserve Board said.

"Experience suggests that any moves toward higher rates are likely to be gradual. Almost five years have passed since the maximum permissible rate was increased from 2 1/2 per cent to the present 3 per cent. Many banks, however, still pay less than 3 per cent."

The board said its 6,100 member banks have 50 million savings and time deposit accounts amounting to $67 billion.

The FDIC move will apply to 6,997 insured state banks which are not members of the federal reserve system.

Congress authorized the reserve board and FDIC to fix maximum permissible rates in 1933. The levels were changed only twice before under that authority.

Under the new interest rate schedule:

For funds on deposit for a period of less than six months there will be no change in the 3 per cent interest rate.

For money on deposit for from six to 12 months, a maximum rate of 3 1/2 per cent will be allowable.

For funds on deposit for one year or more, the permissible maximum interest rate goes to 4 per cent.

man values, make it the major world problem."

Warning that the "whole future of the United Nations is at stake," he gave four principal reasons for barring the door to the Peiping regime.

1. The step, once taken, is irreversible, and once admitted Peiping would stay "for better or worse."

2. There is suspicion that once admitted the Chinese Communists would be encouraged to exert "by threats and maneuvers, a most disruptive and demoralizing influence on the organization at this critical moment in history."

3. Its admission, under conditions "in which it continues to violate and defy the principles of the charter, could seriously shake public opinion in the United Nations—can assure you it would do so among the people of the United States—and this alone would significantly weaken the organization."

4. In light of Peiping's demands, the expulsion of the Nationalists and admission of the Communists could have only one meaning: that the United Nations acquiesced in Peiping's design to conquer Taiwan and thereby "overthrow and abolish the independent government of the Republic of China."

Zorin told the assembly the Chinese Communists had the complete support of the entire Communist world.

"The government of the People's Republic of China has the right to bring the liquidation of the Chiang Kai-shek clique to an end both by peaceful means and with the use of armed force, and that is within its exclusive competence and nobody else's," Zorin asserted.

He predicted that if U.S. military support were withdrawn from Taiwan "the clique of Chiang Kai-shek will not stay another day there. It will be wiped away by the hurricane of the people's wrath."

He declared the United States found it impossible to recover from the shock of Red China's conquest of the mainland.

"The bent back of a Chinese coolie being flogged by a supervisor's whip—this is the image of China which the American imperialists would like to bring back to life," he said.

He expressed disappointment that the Kennedy administration had not changed its position on Communist China.

He blamed "powerful U.S. military and financial" groups for failure to achieve the change. He said the United States wants to keep Taiwan as a springboard for an attack on the Chinese mainland.

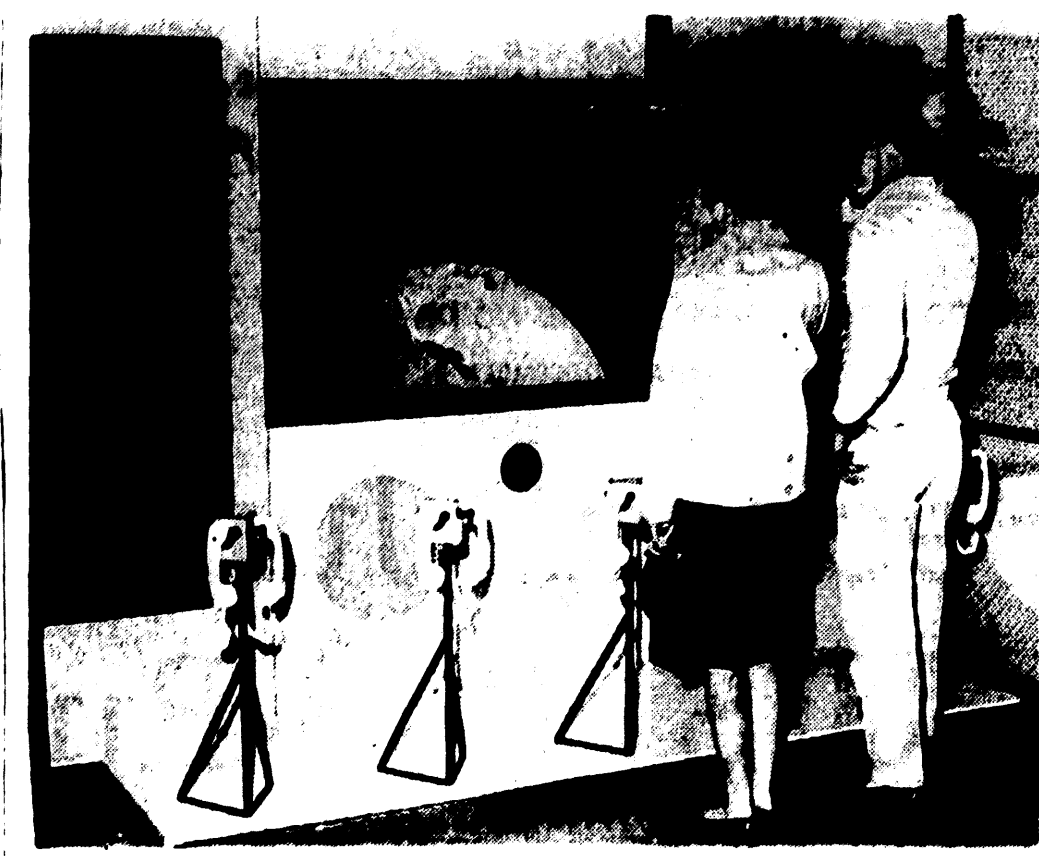

Tsai described the Peiping regime as "the fruit of Soviet infiltration, subversion and military intervention in China."

He said that the Soviet Union is asking for seating of the Chinese Communists "are really asking for the international recognition and approval, or at least acceptance, of their handiwork."

Before the debate opened the groundwork was laid for a big battle over whether the China representation issue requires a simple or two-thirds majority to decide.

The United States, Austria, Italy, Colombia and Japan introduced a resolution which would have the assembly declare the China representation issue a substantive one requiring a two-thirds majority.

The United States is confident it can block Red China's admission if a two-thirds vote is required. It is not so sure about a simple majority. The vote on the five-nation resolution can be approved by a simple majority.

between 20,000 and 25,000 men West said no disciplinary action would be taken.

The protesters were also critical of base facilities and living quarters, Vance said. They complained proper field equipment had not been issued.

"We object to not being properly used," the letter said. "We object to this needless waste of our time and government money."

The base has been found adequate by news-men and military inspectors, Vance said.

"It's been a soldier's prerogative to gripe since George Washington's time," Vance said. "When you have 20,000 to 25,000 men on a post, someone's bound to gripe."

The letter was dated Nov. 21. Kilgore said he had not received it but had read about it.

The letter of which the Shreveport Times received a copy listed these "main" complaints of the division:

— "Extra long work hours; this includes all personnel, especially married men with families. Our work day starts about 5 o'clock and ends at 7 or 8 o'clock at night. Some of the facilities are closed by the time we are off duty, such as the laundry."

— "Social life is very limited. Chow. We have been short on rations. The men actually don't get enough to eat and the food is very poorly prepared. Also, there is not enough time to eat."

— "Rank. We have a number of unauthorized corporals which cause hardships on P-4s, a technician's rank equivalent to corporal and below."

— "Not Placed According to MOS. No regard for qualified men. Men that were recalled back in service are not placed according to their MOS, military occupational specialty."

— "Clothing and field equipment. We have not been issued a sufficient amount of clothing, nor field equipment, such as canteens. We go to the field for training without water."

— "Wall lockers. Clothing is not authorized to be hung in wall lockers. They have to be on hangers in open barracks, leaving them accessible to anyone. No footlockers have been issued."

Education's Pleas For Yule Need Cited In Help Mounting Space Race

Dr. Paul A. Campbell, colonel USAF, chief advanced studies aerospace medical center at Brooks AFB in San Antonio, gave this reply:

"I seriously doubt if we will solve the population problem in space. There are many mechanical problems that will prevent a big migration in space."

Gen. Hardy, a former Tech student and native of Logansport, spoke at a luncheon where Tech president Dr. R. L. Ropp acted as toastmaster.

While he noted education's important role in the space age, Gen. Hardy offered several proposed changes for the education field.

He said, "I would eliminate some of the niceties of social aspects such as social dancing classes, but I would emphasize the humanities including a speaking ability in at least two modern foreign languages, an extensive knowledge of history, government and economics."

But to accomplish this, Gen. Hardy said an 11-month school year would be necessary.

"This, I believe would be compatible with our current society and would probably aid the teaching profession by enabling it to demand appropriate pay for a full year of professional services in secondary schools rather than only three-fourths of a year of service annually," he said.

Robert H. Curry, president of the State Board of Education, of Shreveport made a few comments and Dr. Ropp said later he with Gen. Hardy that "some changes" are needed.

"This is the most significant meeting ever held on the campus of Louisiana Tech," Dr. Ropp stated.

Panelists on rocketry and space physiology and education followed the luncheon.

Panelists on rocketry included Dr. S. N. Suen and Bryce Wilhite, solid fuel propulsion, Thiokol Chemical Corp., Ogden, Utah, and Purser, Dr. Virgil Orr, a Tech faculty member, was moderator.

Participating on the panel for space physiology and education were Dr. Campbell, R. A. Worley, astronomy, Col. Arthur Small, chief, professional education division, Headquarters, USAF, Pentagon, Washington, D.C., and Dr. Charles F. Gell, director of life sciences, astronautics and division, Chance-Vought Corp., Dallas.

Symposium leaders who were given credit for the program included chairman N. W. de Berardinis, a member of the board of trustees of the Aerospace Education Foundation, and Dr. R. E. Ruff, head of the physics department at Tech.

The News-Post said it could not release any information on the screening of letters in its office except that which was released by the FBI.

Muskie, who was governor when the letter was written four years ago, was closely guarded with his family for weeks after the letter was received. The letter said: "I will try to kill you when I come to Maine in August . . . and made obscene references to him, his Polish ancestry and his Roman Catholic religion."

The FBI arrested Mrs. Vale in front of her home Friday morning.

Law Alone No Remedy

Those who continually call for more stringent penalties for persons who violate traffic laws might do well to turn their attention toward calling for enforcement of laws already on the books. What we lack in many places is enforcement—not laws.

The city of Memphis seems adequately equipped to deal with traffic violators as far as the law is concerned but a complaint has been made there that lack of enforcement is allowing many to violate the laws and has resulted in death.

In that city there is a penalty of a year in jail and a fine of $500 for driving without a license.

A 10-year-old was struck dead in Memphis traffic by a truck driver without a license. Before the fatal accident, the man had been arrested five times in seven months for speeding. This meant five cases of extraordinary danger for others in the streets. The state highway patrol took away the man's driver license in August. But in November the unlicensed driver was actually earning his living at the driver's wheel of a truck until death brought him back into the hands of the law.

The situation there, however, is no different from what it is in many other cities across the land. The provided penalties are severe enough but there generally has been no follow-up to see that a driver whose license has been revoked is no longer driving. There, as in many other cities, enforcement is so feeble that thousands of persons take the chance of continuing to drive. It is routine for crash investigators to turn up a driver without a license.

In the particular case cited in Memphis, investigators cleared the driver of responsibility but locked him up for driving. Whether he should have been cleared of responsibility in the death is a serious question. Without a doubt, if he had been obeying the law that said he should not drive an automobile, since he was not entitled to a license he would not have killed the child. When a criminal kills some one in the commission of a crime, even though unintentionally, the law holds him responsible. If one robber among several kills a person during a holdup, all those involved are equally charged with murder, even though all except one may have been against any violence. Was the Memphis driver really innocent of the killing, and guilty only of driving without a license, when the killing occurred during a law violation. We also have precedent in charging a drunk driver with negligent homicide if he kills a person when driving while intoxicated, even though the mishap might otherwise be called an unavoidable accident.

Commenting on the Memphis case, the Commercial Appeal said:

"It would be unnecessary for police, deputies and highway patrolmen to develop a Sherlock Holmes squad. Any officer given the assignment and the time, ought to be able to take a list of revoked license and find out where the former holders work, how they get to and from their work, whether the work requires driving and similar information that would allow special attention in the cases where violations are probable.

"Until there is at least as much fear of driving without a license as there is of fishing without a license—at least as much expectation of being caught—we are going to have deaths, injuries and property damage that could have been prevented."

Two Johnsons' Views

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who rode into office on President Kennedy's coattails, after he suffered the disappointment of his life in not getting the presidential nomination, is a "middle-of-the-roader." That is, he stays in the middle of any old road the leftists want to make him follow. He and the late Sam Rayburn, who also hailed from Texas, sold out their heritage as free thinkers when they threw in with Kennedy in the 1960 national Democratic convention.

Theoretically, Johnson is the number two man in the nation, although actually he wielded far more power as senate majority leader, and the speaker of the house far out-ranks him in authority.

In Mississippi there is another man by the name of Johnson, whose views are so different from the course the vice-president is being compelled to follow that what he says is worthy of mention. He is Lieutenant Governor Paul B. Johnson, whose middle initial also happens to be "B".

Speaking before the Rotary club in Indianola, Lieutenant Governor Johnson said:

"The very foundation of this country are being undermined by the popular philosophy of 'the government owes me a living' and by the willingness to exchange liberty for cradle-to-the-grave 'security.'"

He cited the fact that certain sections of the Mississippi delta have qualified for handouts of free commodities in spite of "one of the most bountiful harvests in history."

"The emphasis today," he said, "is on doing nothing and getting paid not to work."

The speaker urged businessmen to take a more active part in governmental affairs, particularly in elections, from the local to the national level, "for you soon won't have any business."

The Kennedy administration, which "took a page from Franklin Roosevelt's book," was lambasted by Lieutenant Governor Johnson for its encroachment into local affairs. He accused the president of using his brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, to gather the Negro vote, "just as Mrs. Roosevelt served that purpose for her late husband."

The activities of the justice department in forcing registration of unqualified voters in Macon county, Alabama, was compared to the dictatorial methods found in the Ukraine or Siberia.

Vice President Johnson probably has become so confused by presidential orders and restrictions that he no longer is sure just how he stands on anything.

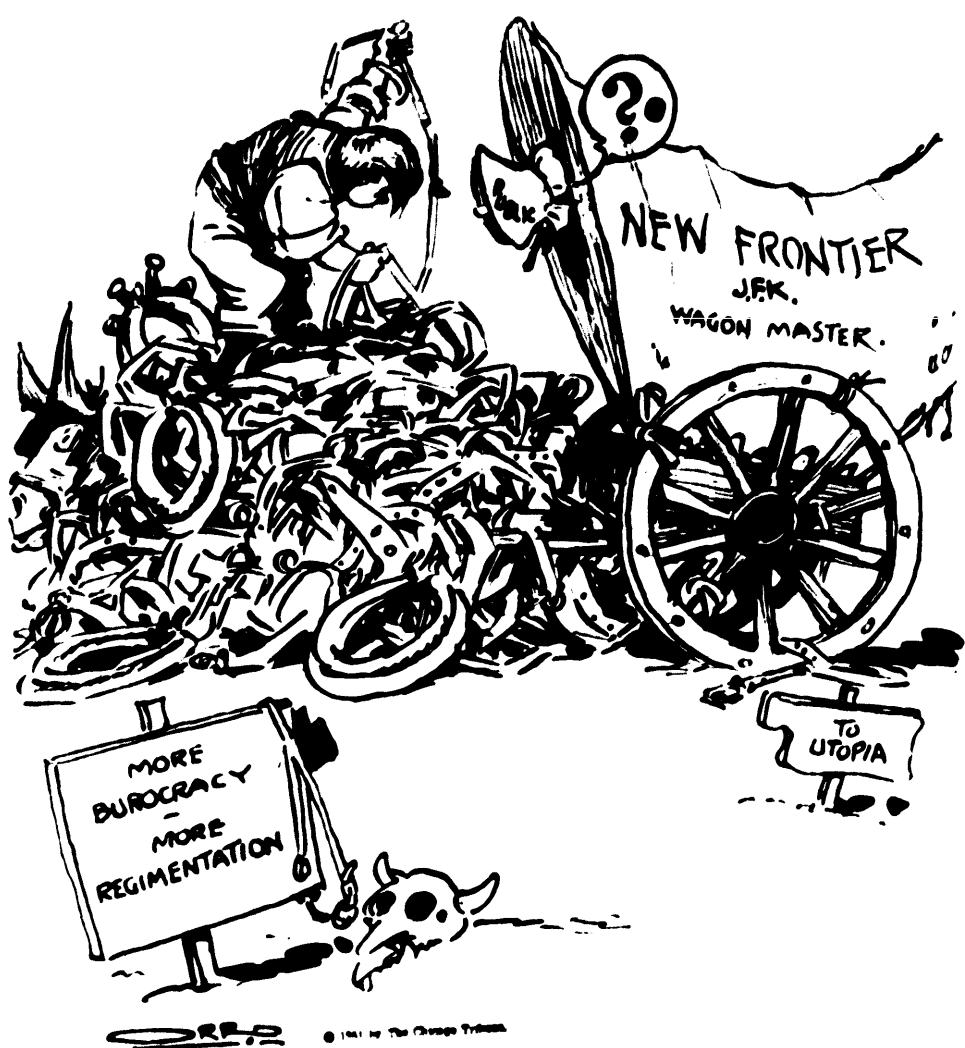

Lieutenant Governor Johnson of Mississippi knows he stands on solid ground in upholding fundamental Americanism and states' rights.

There is a definite swing toward conservatism throughout the whole country. This is demonstrated in many ways, such as the formation of conservative clubs on college campuses, where the radicals held sway for a good many years, and in the vast following that has been attracted to conservative Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The western branch of the Orient Express runs from Paris through Strasbourg and Munich to Vienna.

In 1873 New York made Memorial Day a legal holiday. Soon nearly all states followed suit.

Three of the best known Pilgrims, Myles Standish and John and Priscilla Alden, didn't live in Plymouth. They made their homes in Duxbury, across Plymouth Bay.

Raising Gardens On Moon

Scientists See Typical Lunar Plants Being Sown In Specialized Greenhouses With Good Results

Man can spend billions of dollars getting to the moon but once he's there he has to eat and that is a problem which scientists still must solve.

The earthman making a quick trip to the moon and back can probably carry along enough food to sustain himself but on any kind of expedition he will have to grow his own.

It won't be necessary to satisfy a gourmet's palate nor will it be the kind of spread one would find at Maxim's or Arnaud's. Actually, an adequate diet can be achieved with just four vegetables—corn, roasted peanuts, soybean sprouts and lettuce. These provide a balanced diet of proteins, fats, carbohydrates and vitamins and can be eaten raw or cooked.

At Republic Aviation's new $14 million space environment and life sciences laboratory in Farmingdale, Long Island, scientists already are hard at work seeking to find the best way of raising a garden on the moon. These studies are part of a research program conducted for the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division to determine the feasibility of establishing a base on the moon.

According to Hyman Stein, manager of space projects for Republic, it is probable that a man on the moon will require in excess of 3,000 calories a day—just as he does on earth—despite the reduction of gravity up there. For one thing, the pressure of work will be so great that it will require each man to operate at his maximum capability.

As these scientists see the picture the typical lunar garden will probably be sown in a specialized greenhouse and would offer a menu more palatable than some of the popularly mentioned space diets consisting of such delicacies as algae, lichens and Iceland moss.

In the current state of research at Republic an effort is being made to determine how vegetables can be grown to maturity at low pressure. Since the moon has virtually no atmosphere, the less pressurization needed for a lunar greenhouse, the less cost in weight and materials. With the cost of sending "building materials" into space running as high as $1,000 a pound this is an important consideration.

Since a typical lunar dry run to some 14 days of continuous daylight it is expected that growing time can be reduced to possibly one-quarter that required on earth.

Scientists, of course, are looking for the ideal moon vegetable. This is one that would have a seed that is light per pound of vegetable produced; would germinate readily and not be sensitive to light, gravity, radiation or cosmic rays; would not require oxygen. Also one where the entire plant including roots would be edible, which would provide a balanced diet of proteins, fats, carbohydrates and vitamins, could be eaten raw or cooked, and has a short growing period in full sunlight at low pressures under a wide range of temperature conditions.

As part of its research into the mysteries of the great unknown the Republic lab is delving into the problem of what conditions can be expected when the first manned observation post is established on the moon. Already the scientists know this much: there are still many critical gaps of knowledge that need filling in.

In this regard, the construction of living quarters will depend on getting accurate information on the wall between East and West Germany was allowed to harden and stand.

Mr. K. will be glad to negotiate now. He has accomplished his objective in Germany and is now concentrating on the next square on the world's chessboard—Finland. This is his first in a series of moves to neutralize the Scandinavian countries. If he succeeds, they will be removed from any position of helpfulness to the west.

It is useless for us now even to talk of negotiation; it always has been. The only negotiation Mr. K. would have understood in the Berlin instance would have been the consistent pushing down of his cement wall each time it reared its head.

How do you stand, sir?

such things as the intensity of meteorite bombardment, radiation hazards, surface structure, composition and temperatures. These in turn may depend on magnetic fields, electric fields and atmosphere conditions.

The Republic scientists depict a lunar colony located inside the rim of a large crater, with a range of mountains in the distance. A typical colony would consist of 25 persons—20 men and five women.

This colony would live in quarters made from inflatable plastic cylinders. The home on the moon would be buried 4 to 6 feet deep to protect its residents against the 400 degree temperature range between night and day and also against solar radiation and solar glare.

The kind of research going on at Republic has as its goal the same as that of every laboratory in the Nation playing some part in America's vast and ambitious space program. It is to insure that nothing be left to chance in developing a shield of protection for the first American who will set foot on lunar soil.

Washington

SHORTS

NO TAX OVERHAUL? — Talk of general tax revision at January session of Congress grows less and less. Also noted Administration plan to stimulate economic growth through tax credits for investment in new plant and equipment, which House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee held long hearings this year, is dead. Prediction now is that Congress in 1962 will do little more than extend for another year corporation and excise taxes, without which tax collections would fall off $4,000,000,000. Congressional conservatives will press for action on Herlong-Baker bill, purpose of which is to effect a gradual lowering both of personal taxes and corporate taxes over a period of five years, but their chances of success are dim. Predictions are that House Ways and Means Committee and Senate Finance Committee in 1962 will devote most of their time to tariff matters, occasioned by proposed revision of Hull reciprocal trade law which expires on June 30, unless renewed.

BUDGET PREPARATION — Budget Bureau in preparation of its estimates for next year is giving a real look at the cost of domestic welfare programs. Reason: House of Representatives at end of recent session gave evidence that it has assumed role of purse strings holder instead of hand-out hunter for voting blocs and expects more than ever at January session to prove that it has a mind of its own. There is the additional fact that $51,000,000,000 is being obligated in this fiscal year for defense programs as now stand, and which may be raised in supplemental appropriations. Expenditures could be as high as $55,000,000,000 in next fiscal year if crisis continues but stops short of war.

ADMINISTRATION AND BUSINESS — Kennedy Administration will continue its efforts to convince business it is not "anti-business." Some business men say the principal grounds for their belief that Kennedy regime is unfriendly rests on words and actions of Attorney General Kennedy, Secretary of Commerce, and some close Kennedy advisers in echelons below the Cabinet level. Hodges especially is making strong efforts to eradicate feeling of business that he is unfriendly. President in private talks calls attention to prominent Republican businessmen he has recently called to Government service as a refutation of anti-business charges.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Brutality Told

Columnist Says Some Officers Use Unnecessary Roughness

Two conflicting reports are available: one shows the constant increase of crime and the lowering ages of criminals; the other is the report of the Civil Rights Commission that police brutality is widespread and should be curbed. The statistical report of the FBI on criminal activities is a statement of fact; the report of the Civil Rights Commission is a statement of opinion.

Let us take New York City where I live as an example. Crime has increased so that parks are closed at night; men and women are mugged on principal streets at night; pocket book snatchings are not unusual; certain streets are unsafe for anyone not only because of individual assaults and robberies but because of gang fights.

These conditions are so in many large Northern and Eastern cities. The very kindly Father Hesburgh, President of Notre Dame, who is a member of the Civil Rights Commission, writes: "1. The actions of most policemen demonstrate that effective law enforcement is possible without the use of unlawful violence. 2. Nonetheless, police brutality by some state and local officers presents a serious and continuing problem in many parts of the United States. Both whites and Negroes are the victims, but Negroes are the victims of such brutality far more, proportionately, than any other group in American society."

The job of a policeman is to maintain order on his beat and to prevent criminals from molesting decent citizens. The policeman should be free to beat up a hoodlum with a night-stick and to shoot to kill, if necessary. Father Hesburgh originally came from the Bronx and if he would walk through the streets of his childhood, he would be shocked by the conditions that exist there.

The confusion in this report arises from the general tendency to drag the Negro question into all discussions on any subject, as though that question alone mattered in our society. I prefer to call it the Negro question because that is what it is. Sociologists and others prefer to hide behind fancy words, but the fact of the matter is that the discussion is about Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

It is not unusual for new immigrants to find it difficult to adjust to the new and, in many respects, novel situations in which they find themselves when they are uprooted from their traditional mores. The family structure rapidly disintegrates and youth lives in an undisciplined atmosphere. This was true of the Irish immigrants; of the Russian-Polish-Rumanian and other Jews who settled in such a section as the East Side of New York; it was true of the early Italian immigrants who organized such societies as the Black Hand and the Mafia; it was true of the Southern Negro who moved North in the hope of bettering his conditions and found that he was unwelcomed despite the Northern boast of a superior racial attitude.

There are many reasons why the newer migrant groups (and I include the Negroes in this category) become local problems. Adjustments are not easy. My youth was spent under precisely the conditions that all the reports deal with. Recently, I visited the Educational Alliance, the settlement house which was a second home to me in those days. The fellowship of older men and women included a number who are now distinguished and wealthy. One of the friends of my childhood had contributed a quarter or a half million dollars for good works—the amount is unimportant because he told me that he expects to give it all back before he dies and his wife said Amen to that.

But when we were boys we were very poor and many of the parents engaged in marginal trades. The police were not brutal but they kept us in order. Those who did not obey their parents and the police in time joined gangs, as some others of us joined settlements. Those who joined gangs became major criminals and are among the best-known criminals and racketeers of the past half century. Others became priests, rabbis, doctors, lawyers, judges, businessmen and even college professors.

The policeman can be a good friend but he must have a strong arm. When the night-stick was taken from him, great mischief was done to boys and girls. Father Hesburgh should know that from his childhood, as I know it from mine in the big city.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Urine Specimen

Making Tests Of This Kind Important In Finding Disease

Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn, why do doctors always insist that we bring a specimen of urine for examination? Is that really necessary for people who don't have any kidney symptoms? Getting the right kind of bottle and all the rest is quite a chore—Mrs. F., New York

Comment: Routine examination of urine is one of the important tests in medicine. Trouble is that many think it is unnecessary because it is so easy. The doctor doesn't have to puncture your veins to remove blood or put you through any complex procedure. Therefore, you begin to believe that it is a waste of time. It isn't.

A careful examination of the urine reveals many things. Of course, nearly everybody knows that sugar in the urine usually indicates the presence of diabetes. And that albumin shows some kind of kidney trouble. But it isn't so simple as that.

There are other tests; for example, examination of the urinary sediment under the microscope. Here we may find microscopic blood cells which lead us on the diagnostic trail in search of kidney or ureteral stones; of bladder growth or infection; of tuberculosis of the kidney tract; of prostate trouble; of cancer of the bladder or the kidney. (Sometimes we find blood but no cause for it.)

We examine the urine for acidity or alkalinity which gives us various leads. We can culture the urine to determine what bacteria are responsible for infection; then we use the proper barrage of antibiotics. The urine gives us early evidence of unsuspected infection of the kidney called pyelonephritis.

I could go on and on. But I think this should convince you that the urine examination is not low on the totem pole of laboratory tests. It may seem simple, but it is important. No physical examination is complete without it.

HYPERCHOLESTEROLEMIA

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My doctor tells me I have hypercholesterolemia. That's an awful long word and I'm quite short on understanding. Will you explain?—Mr. E., Florida

Comment: Too much cholesterol in the blood. Anyone who has high cholesterol readings should have a complete physical check-up. Among others, the following studies are advisable: electrocardiograms, X-ray of the chest, tests to rule out diabetes, and checks on the efficiency of the thyroid gland (basal metabolism readings and protein bound iodine tests).

CANCER CONTAGIOUS?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is cancer contagious? According to most recent knowledge it is caused by a virus or microbe. What precautions should the layman take who visits a friend with this condition?—Mrs. H.

Comment: You may continue to bring comfort to your friend without any fear of "catching cancer." We have no edical evidence that you are placing yourself in any danger.

CYST BEHIND THE EAR

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My daughter is 25 and has developed a cyst behind her ear where the stem of her glasses rests. It has been present on and off for months. It seems to heal after the infected material comes out, but weeks later fills up again. Now I'm truly worried, although tests show it isn't cancerous. What can be done for permanent cure?—Mrs. F.

Comment: It seems to me that the cyst is beyond treatment with simple squeezing or aspirating the material with a syringe. A good surgeon can cut out the entire cyst; and your daughter will no longer have any recurrences.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Practical Pointers for Coronary Patients" will be mailed on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address: your request to Dr. Steincrohn, care of this newspaper.

West Monroe Man Charged With Arson

Wayland Taylor, 30, of 1517 Joe Bill St. in West Monroe was arrested Friday by state and parish authorities and charged with arson.

Taylor was in Ouachita Parish jail last night awaiting further action, after reportedly admitting to setting the late June blaze which consumed two houses owned by him in West Monroe.

He was quoted by Sheriff Bailey Grant as saying as he did it "to collect some insurance so I could get out of debt." Deputies said Taylor claimed he carried about $9,500 coverage on both houses, located at 1517 Joe Bill.

He was living at the time across the street with a nephew at 1516, according to investigators. The houses burned on the night of June 27.

Taylor was picked up Friday by sheriff's deputies and agents of the deputy state fire marshal's office in Monroe. No bond has been set.

Police In N.Y. Add To Woes Of Red Leader

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Communist leader Gus Hall, already in trouble with federal authorities, ran into difficulty with local police Friday.

Police stopped a 1962, fawn-colored convertible he was driving and accused him of three motor vehicle violations driving across a white line, failing to have a New York driver's license and driving with improper registration.

Hall, who lives in Yonkers, was ordered to appear in court Dec. 7. The automobile was impounded. Hall is general secretary of the Communist party in the United States.

The Justice Department had ordered Hall and other Communist leaders to register by midnight Thursday as agents of the Soviet Union. They refused.

The penalty for that is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine for each day of noncompliance.

Romania Named To U. N. Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly has elected Communist Romania to the 11-nation Security Council for one year, ratifying a behind-scenes gentlemen's agreement that broke a deadlock.

Under the agreement, Romania will succeed Turkey then resign and allow the Philippines to take over the seat for one year beginning Jan. 1, 1963.

Neither country was able to get the necessary two-thirds majority in two prior attempts to fill the vacancy.

Previously Venezuela was elected to succeed Ecuador, Ghana to succeed Ceylon—both for two-year terms—and Ireland to succeed Liberia in another one-year split.

The assembly in a formal vote Friday gave Romania 75 votes and the Philippines 16. Five countries abstained.

Negro Is Booked On Theft Warrant

Booked on a warrant for theft Friday by Monroe police was Robert Thomas, 28, Negro, of 2029 Thomas St. Bond on the offense was set at $350.

Officers also reported Thomas wanted in Rayville by the Richland Parish Sheriff's Department on charges of non-support. Bond on that count was listed as $750.

Work Half Done On Road Project

Wayne Huckaby, Ouachita parish engineer, said Friday that work is 50 per cent complete on placing $42,000 worth of washed gravel on local roads.

The state makes the gravel available free to the parish, under Act 128.

"We have completed operations in wards four, five, eight and nine," said Huckaby, "and are partially completed in two, three, six, seven and ten."

"All available highway department men and equipment are occupied concentrating on this work."

The highway department also has received a $20,000 check in regular state aid this week.

"That will help our December payroll," commented Ouachita Police Jury President M. W. Montgomery.

Parish highways came under discussion at the jury's 2 p.m. Purchasing Committee session Friday.

Huckaby said that the Green Road in ward two's LaFourche Swamp is slated for improvement during 1962.

The road has been rough-graded in the past. Next year, the highway department will place selected soils on the route, and build it up, to be above the effects of the swamp water.

Monday, highway crews will move a gradall into the Garrett Road, ward three, to regrade and drain it, preparatory to re-surfacing it with gravel.

Rankin Earle, ward three juror, complimented Huckaby on the completed resurfacing of the Miller Road in ward three.

"I drove over it," said Earle "and it's like a different country." The jury approved purchase of parts of the caterpillar grader, at a total cost of approximately $1500.

Montgomery explained that the jury would be unable to call for bids on such parts, since only one company manufactures the ones needed.

Jurors also approved purchase

Soviets Halt U.S. Convoy In Germany

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviets delayed a U.S. infantry convoy for 80 minutes Friday on a technicality and repeated warnings such movements are "a dangerous act of military demonstration." The U.S. Army promptly announced the most massive troop movement to date.

The Army said two battle groups will trade stations in West Germany and Berlin soon in a move that will send about 3,000 American combat troops shuttling along the autobahn.

The troops switch over the city's superhighway link with the West—unprecedented since the Allies occupied the city in 1945—was interpreted by observers as defiance of Communist charges against military use of the autobahn.

Friday's convoy of 200 infantrymen passed through the West German checkpoint near Helmstedt in three units safely although the Russians delayed the last one to leave Berlin for 80 minutes on grounds it had inaccurate documents.

American officials said the documents listed one truck too many. They corrected the error on the spot. Then the group's three jeeps and three trucks followed the company's 15 other vehicles without further incident.

The whole move—and a series of previous troop transfers—was an assertion of U.S. rights to travel the autobahn to West Berlin without Communist restrictions. Informal sources saw one aspect of Friday's incident as possibly pure harassment.

The Soviets questioned the accuracy of the American definition of two 2½-ton trucks as "medium." The Russians first insisted that medium was the proper designation for a five-ton truck. However, they relented finally and accepted the American definition.

The incident Friday coincided with the second straight charge by Tass news agency that the American military movements were "provocations."

The Tass dispatch distributed by the official East German ADN news agency, called the autobahn troop moves of "inflammatory character" and "a dangerous military provocation." It details recent and forthcoming American moves.

U. S. To Combat GI Rent Gouging

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department started a lieve that when such groups realize that any discrimination affects our ability to encourage active membership in the reserves, and reservists from rent gouging, and therefore is contrary to the best interests of the country, they will be more than willing to correct such discrimination.

The effort to stamp out high rents and prices in military base areas was designed to help reservists and guardsmen already summoned to duty.

The department urged "understanding, consideration and equitable treatment." It quoted Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, as saying:

"A serviceman who is worried about his family's living conditions cannot find time to do his job."

It cited a letter from a 20-year-old youth to his Pennsylvania congressman protesting that he could not find work because employers felt that he might be recalled to service.

"If they want a soldier tomorrow, they had better feed us today," the reservist wrote.

The Defense Department policy acknowledged that there was little that could be done about such situations. But Paul Grant, a fictitious name used by the department, said every effort would be made to enlist cooperation of employers, Eau Claire State College labor organizations and related agencies.

ACCIDENTS GALORE

Chaos Results In Area Mishap

JONESBORO, Special — Two people were injured Friday when a car was involved in a crash on the Chatham city limits. The car was east of Jonesboro when a car ran off the road and resulted in an accident with no injuries. The driver of the police car, Mrs. E. G. Allison of Jonesboro, was not injured. Mrs. Allison was returning from Monroe on highway 10 when she was involved in the accident. She had been visiting with her son, a friend, Mrs. L. O. Montgomerie, and two grandchildren, when the accident occurred.

Both the women were taken to a Jonesboro clinic where they were suffering from cuts and abrasions on the head and body and in a state of shock. A doctor at the clinic reported that the children were treated for minor cuts and released.

Two ambulances were dispatched and two miles outside of Chatham one caught fire and burned. The driver said he believed it was caused by the motor overheating.

FIREMAN FAN FLAMES

(CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — 15 firemen spent 15 minutes recently fanning the flames of love.

At 4:55 p.m., Charles William Merriman and Linda Ruth Reed were on business. The car was of Knoxville drove up to the fire hall and asked where they could find a marriage license.

At the courthouse, they were told, "but you've only got five minutes." The lovers rushed off, fender skirts taken from his car.

At 5, they were back with the November 30 while it was parked license—to find that the firemen on campus at the men's dormitory also had been busy.

At 5:02, Sheriff Sam Cannon drove up with Justice of the Peace John Clayton.

At 5:05, Miss Reed became Mrs. Merriman.

At 5:10, the newlyweds drove away.

Police Probe Theft Cases

Investigation into three cases of theft occupied Monroe police Friday, with the loot being sought ranging from $200 worth of drugs to the usual hubcaps and fender skirts.

The drugs, of 48 types and arranged in a salesman's display case, were taken from the parked car of a Baton Rouge man November 10. Philip Mondell of 115-15 Palmetto Dr. in Baton Rouge told officers they were stolen sometime between 4:30 and 5 p.m. on that date while he was on business. Carol Service Is Scheduled For Techsters

RUSTON (Special) — Plans are under way for the annual Christmas carol service to be held at Louisiana Tech Monday, Dec. 18, at 9:40 a.m. in the H. and Auditorium.

The program will be presented by the Tech music department as part of a series of programs planned by the programs committee of the college.

Dr. R. L. Ropp, president of Tech, will read the Christmas message. Various choral groups will sing, and background music. Dr. J. B. Wilcox, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, will read a special Christmas poetry.

Highlighting the program will be the combined choruses uniting with the Tech orchestra and organ to present "Tollite Hostias" from the Christmas Mass, the "Hail, Holy Infant" and "Christmas Songs" arranged by Holst.

Dominicans Say Cubans Train For Invasion

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The head of the Dominican armed forces charged Friday night that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba is training troops to invade this strife-torn Caribbean island nation.

Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, the armed forces chief, told newsmen he had information that Castro regime is giving the invasion training to 1,800 to 2,000 Central Americans at three camps in the Sierra Maestra mountains of eastern Cuba.

Violent demonstrations accompanied the current three-day general strike.

The U.S. attorney's office said the complaint against Taylor came from Irvin Mazzei, western regional manager of AGVA who reportedly picked Taylor for the Hawaii job.

Taylor was freed on $1,500 bond and his plea set for Dec. 28.

DOMINICAN VIOLENCE

Troops Fire On Mob; 11 Injured

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Troops fired bullets and hurled noise bombs at antigovernment demonstrators Friday, wounding 10 women and a youth, as a crisis intensified in this island nation. Hospitals said fragments from the noise bombs caused the injuries.

A report that a man was killed by the gunfire could not be confirmed.

The violence — with some anti-U.S. overtones — erupted after the National Civic Union, self-styled nonpartisan organization which is the nation's major opposition group, openly defied an army demand to end a four-day general strike.

Despite the opposition's stand, some shops reopened in Santo Domingo and traffic was about half normal. There were also signs of weakening in nearby areas. Opposition leaders acknowledged previously they could not count on a prolonged shutdown.

A check of hospitals indicated injured were hit by tin fragments from the noise bombs. Witnesses said the shooting and noise-bombing occurred as 300 women were marching in silence.

"We were walking along quietly, a woman related, when suddenly an army truck and two police buses appeared in front of us. They fired machine guns and noise bombs."

Police, showing a stiffening attitude to the opposition, hauled down loudspeakers as Dr. Viriato A. Fiallo, leader of the Civic Union, was addressing a crowd of thousands.

A police colonel told him he had orders to take the loudspeakers down because they were being used to incite the crowd to subversive acts.

In his speech, Fiallo had declared the Civic Union never would "defraud your objectives." At the same time, Fiallo told the crowd to go home and to avoid violence. Fiallo, 65, is described by his friends as a liberal democrat opposed to extremists of left and right.

The army attitude toughened following rejection by the Civic Union Thursday night of a military proposal to keep President Joaquin Balaguer in office as head of a seven-man junta. The proposal would give the armed forces virtually complete authority in the republic, which is struggling to gain new political footing following the demise of the Trujillo dynasty.

Friday's shooting stirred up a new anti-Balaguer storm with some anti-American talk.

U.S. warships were visible offshore Friday morning, drawing jibes from some members of the crowds that roamed the streets.

One man shouted to U.S. correspondents: "Why did you bring those boats? To defend assassins? Yankees go home!"

A student said: "You've created one Castro and you've got another one coming."

A small group took up the cry, "Get the Yankees." But others forced the hecklers away.

Units of the United States fleet have been in the waters near the Dominican Republic since the latter part of November, when members of the Trujillo family attempted to regain power.

In Washington, the State Department issued a new call for statesmanship and moderation by Dominican political leaders lest the strife wreck hopes for a democratic government. The U.S.

statement said Thursday's violence, when a youth was killed by a submachine gun burst, was a "backward step in the movement of the Dominican people along the path toward democratic government."

A State Department spokesman also declared no U.S. official took part in the drafting of the military Thursday. This was an apparent allusion to rumors in Santo Domingo that U.S. officials had something to do with the rejection by Balaguer of a Civic Union proposal for an interim government.

Arturo Morales Carrion, U.S. deputy assistant secretary of state for Latin-American affairs, and Consul General John Calvin Hill, drove into the national palace while Thursday's big anti-Balaguer demonstration was going on outside.

Friday morning, Juan Bosch, leader of the small Revolutionary party, and Secretary of Education Emilio Rodriguez Demorizi, met Hill and Morales Carrion at the consulate general's residence.

Bosch was reported to have agreed to the Balaguer formula in principle. But whether he planned to go it alone was not known.

Meanwhile, the government radio, El Caribe, reported a mixed investigating commission looking into the contents of the luxury yacht "Angelita" found a total of $4,562,837 in Dominican pesos and valuable art objects which have been deposited in a bank. The ex-

Students Assume Role Of Parents

Approximately one hundred children from the Baptist Children's Home in Monroe will arrive on the Northeast Louisiana State College campus at 4 p.m. Thursday, December 13, where they will be met by students playing the role of foster parents.

The children will visit the campus for the traditional entertainment which brings joy to both youngsters and young college men and women. Students are registering for the children in Stubbs Hall 207.

Requests may be made for children between four and eleven years of age, and students may designate their preferences for boys or girls. Request may be made until December 8.

This affair is sponsored by the Student Council, headed by Richard Aycock of Franklin, with William Bobo of Kilbourne as committee chairman and Ginger Donnelly of Monroe in charge of publicity.

The young visitors will start their day on the campus with a tour of the grounds, which will be followed by entertainment in Gunby Dining Hall by Delta Omicron, national music fraternity for women. They will then come to the specially planned meal with its variety of holiday food served at brightly decorated tables.

The group will move to the student center for a Yuletide program including entertainment by the children for their "parents".

The program will climax with Santa distributing gifts to the children which were bought by their foster parents. There will be additional gifts, holiday stockings filled with nuts, candy, and fruit, from the Council.

Art Exhibit Is Scheduled At Northeast

An exhibit of art work by Northeast State student Donnavae Hughes opens Sunday afternoon with a tea from 3 until 5 in Biedenharn Hall lounge on the Northeast campus.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Northeast Art Club, will continue through Dec. 18. It includes paintings, sculpture, jewelry, weaving, leathercraft, ceramics, etchings, linoleum block prints, mosaics and fashion design. The paintings include scenes from Europe and the Dutch West Indies, portraits and pure abstracts.

The first one-student exhibit ever held at Northeast, the art show consists of work done by Miss Hughes from her senior year in high school to the present.

Miss Hughes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Hughes of 1011 South Grand, Monroe. A senior in art education, she is scheduled to be graduated from Northeast in January of 1962. Currently a part-time art instructor at Louisiana Training Institute in Monroe, Miss Hughes is a graduate of LaSalle High School of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

She is a member of the Northeast Art Club and has participated in several speech department drama productions and Little Theatre presentations.

RELIEF FOR 400,000

CHATTANOOGA (AP)—Federal bankruptcy referee Byron Pope recently granted judicial relief to 400,000 hungry baby chicks. A Chattanooga firm listed the chicks as "perishable assets" in a bankruptcy petition filed in U.S. District Court—and Pope appointed a temporary trustee to feed them.

DONNAVAE HUGHES, Northeast State art education senior from Monroe, is pictured with one of her paintings which will be included in an art exhibit in Biedenharn Hall lounge at the college beginning Sunday. The exhibit, the first one-student show presented at Northeast, will include paintings, sculpture, mosaics, jewelry, weaving, leathercraft, ceramics, etchings, linoleum block prints and fashion design done by Miss Hughes from her senior year in high school to the present. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Hughes of 1011 South Grand, Monroe.

Tech Exhibition Is Scheduled By Durioux Students

RUSTON (Special)—Opening this week in the art gallery at Louisiana Tech is an exhibition of prints by Mrs. Caroline Durioux and students in her graphic arts classes at Louisiana State University.

The public is invited to see the exhibition from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday. The exhibition will close on December 14.

Included are etchings, lithographs, wood-cut and electron prints—a new graphic medium involving radioactive isotopes, invented by Mrs. Durioux in collaboration with Dr. Harry Wheeler of L.S.U. and his wife, Naomi Wheeler.

The invention is a new process of printmaking. This process involves making drawings with an ink which contains a radioactive isotope. The radioactive drawing is then exposed to a sheet of paper having a sensitized surface. This paper is developed to produce an image of the radioactive drawing. Repeated exposures permit the production of large number of identical prints from a single drawing.

Initial experiments with this process are in operation.

BY SECRETARY-GENERAL

New U.N. Congo Plan Is Pledged

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant promised Friday to produce a new U.N. plan—probably next week—to deal with rebellious elements in the Congo.

He disclosed this at his first news conference since taking over Nov. 3. He also described President Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga Province as "a very unstable man."

Tshombe is the leader with whom the United Nations or the central Congolese government must negotiate an end to the secession if it is to be achieved peacefully.

He was commenting on Tshombe's charge in Elisabethville Friday that U.N. officials George Ivan Smith and Brian Urquhart provoked the Katangan paratroopers that beat them by driving around and around the house of their commander, Gen. Norbert Muke.

Tshombe, noting that the beating Tuesday night occurred during a party for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said it was provoked to make that American "friend of Katanga" think the place was peopled by savages.

Meanwhile, U.N. sources here said another U.N. official who recalled Tshombe has demanded was going home because his government wanted him back.

The official is Conor Cruise O'Brien of Ireland, chief U.N. representative in Katanga Province and key figure in the abortive U.N. military action last September to rid Katanga of foreign mercenaries. He is now at this headquarters for consultation.

The informants said Irish Foreign Minister Frank Aiken, now attending the General Assembly, had asked and obtained O'Brien's release from U Thant on grounds his services were needed in the Foreign Office in Dublin, where he worked before.

Tshombe flew to Brazzaville in the Congo Republic to confer with President Abbe Fulbert Youlou, a long-time supporter of Katanga independence.

Speculation was that he would ask Youlou to mediate with the central Congolese government across the Congo River in Leopoldville.

In Leopoldville, Sture Linner as chief of the U.N. Congo operation, moved to bypass the central government's foot-dragging over a projected investigation of the killing of 13 Italian U.N. airmen by central Congolese troops.

He wrote Premier Cyrille Adoula that he was sending five U.N. inspectors to Kindu in Kivu Province, scene of the Nov. 11 shooting, even though Adoula's government had failed to name another five inspectors to go along.

Linner warned Adoula the United Nations was holding his government responsible for seeing that the guilty were punished. A U.N. spokesman said the two companies blamed for the killing already had left Kindu but that did not mean the killers could not be caught.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Navy successfully launched a Polaris missile on a more than 1,000-mile flight Friday to gather data on performance of the warhead and other systems.

The rocket was an A2 model, a 1,720-mile range weapon expected to be operational early next year. The shorter range A1 has been deployed aboard nuclear submarines for several months.

A2 was successfully fired from a submarine in previous tests here. The latest launching was from a land pad.

NEWSMEN ATTACKED

McComb Crowd Jeers At 'Riders'

McCOMB, Miss. (UPI) — Six Negro "freedom riders" ventured into this aroused city Friday and were met by an unruly crowd of about 400 whites who shouted insults and curses before police helped hustle them away unharmed. They left town two hours later.

Although the riders escaped without injury, there were brief outbreaks of violence — mostly against newsmen — during the tense day in this South Mississippi city of 35,000.

Four newsmen were attacked and beaten and one was knocked through a plate glass window. Another was followed for a block by a jeering crowd of about 100 whites. None of those attacked was seriously hurt, however.

The "freedom riders" arrived on a bus from Baton Rouge, La., and police promptly escorted them into the white waiting room of the Greyhound bus terminal, where five other "freedom riders" were attacked earlier this week.

About two minutes after they entered, Friday's group emerged from the station and sped off in an automobile with two officials of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), chief sponsor of the "freedom rides."

Two hours later the Negroes returned to the terminal and left town on a bus for New Orleans. The move came as a surprise and the crowd had dwindled by the time the Negroes reappeared at the station.

Those who were on hand simply stared at the riders.

The shouting crowd was waiting when the six Negroes—four boys and two girls—first arrived. They surged around them when they left the terminal, but did not harm them.

Police Chief George Guy had told newsmen they could go near the terminal if they wished. He warned: "We'll try to protect you but can't promise you anything."

Prior to the well-publicized arrival of the bus, police took up positions at the doors of the terminal and refused admittance to all but persons with official business.

Observers from the Justice Department also were on hand.

Mayor C. H. Douglas vowed on Thursday that the city would tolerate no further violence and would take steps to assure the carrying out of a federal court order directing that the terminal be desegregated.

The four newsmen who were beaten were Dan Uhrbrock of Miami, a photographer for Life magazine; Life reporter Don Underwood of Miami; Time magazine reporter Simmons Fentriss of Atlanta and Ferd Kaufman, a photographer for the Associated Press.

Uhrbrock, Underwood and Fentriss were attacked as they left the offices of the McComb Enterprise Journal. Kaufman was hit several times in a separate incident when he left city hall.

Friday's beating was the second Uhrbrock has suffered in recent months covering racial disorders. He was attacked last spring while covering "freedom rider" violence in Montgomery, Ala.

Uhrbrock was knocked through a plate glass window Friday, but apparently was not seriously hurt.

Another newsmen ran afoul of the crowd. John Naylor, a television photographer, was shooting pictures of the crowd when someone yelled, "get that cameraman." A jeering crowd gathered around Naylor and dogged his footsteps as he walked back to city jail.

U.S. Reports New Gains In Employment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government permitted a somewhat brighter employment picture for the months ahead in announcing Friday that eight more industrial centers were taken off the list of areas with "substantial" unemployment.

The report covering the past month said this left 60 cities and metropolitan areas—of 150 covered in the regular survey—in that category of over 6 per cent unemployment.

This contrasted sharply with the gloomy report for November last year when the total was being pushed upward by the recession, reaching a record high of 101 in March and April. By comparison the November total for 1960 was 51, for 1959 it was 32, and in 1958 it was 83.

The new forecast said there will be a further temporary rise in employment in the major metropolitan areas, followed by the usual seasonal drop when temporary post office and retail workers are laid off after Christmas and weather forces cutbacks in construction and other outdoor work.

But the department said the over-all job drop will not be as severe as during the same season last year because it is expected to be offset by hiring in major industries such as steel, machinery, aircraft and ordinance.

The "substantial" unemployment classification entitles an area to preference in the award of military and other federal contracts.

The eight major centers taken off the "substantial" list were shifted to the "moderate" classification—3 to 5.9 per cent unemployment. They were: Tampa-St. Petersburg, Fla.; Savannah, Ga.; Worcester, Mass.; Saginaw, Mich.; New Brunswick-Perth Amboy, N.Y.; Akron, Ohio; Tulsa, Okla.; and Corpus Christi, Tex.

One major center was taken off the "moderate" list. Rochester, N.Y., was shifted to the "low unemployment class"—with 1.5 to 2.9 per cent joblessness.

Three smaller areas were added to the "substantial unemployment list and six others were removed because of improved employment conditions.

Those added were Elizabethtown, Ky.; Hammond, La.; and Greenville, Tenn. Those removed were: Florence-Sheffield, Ala.; Hattiesburg, Miss.; Pascagoula, Miss.; Morganton, N.C.; Roanoke Rapids, N.C.; and Bremerton, Wash.

Two other smaller areas—Mount Carmel-Olney, Ill., and Morehead-Grayson, Ky.—were removed from the "substantial" list for different reasons. They were subdivided into five "very small" areas to reflect shifts in the commuting patterns of workers.

The net effect was to reduce the number of small areas with "substantial" unemployment to 201, compared with 206 in October and 217 in September.

Of the areas of "substantial" unemployment, the department said 420—big and small—are classed as having "substantial and persistent" unemployment—including 20 major centers, 33 "smaller" areas and 301 "very small" areas. These have top priority for government contracts.

Jet Narrowly Misses Workers In Fiery Crash

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—A recently activated Air Force plane aimed his flaming F100 Super Sabre Jet into the lower Niagara gorge Friday to avoid residential areas, and then parachuted to safety. The plane narrowly missed at least 15 workmen on a scaffold.

Lt. Edward Methot, 29, of New York City ejected himself from the plane seconds before it bounded off the wall on the American side of the gorge, exploded and fell into the Niagara River. The crash occurred five miles below the Falls and less than a half-mile from the main plant of the new Niagara power project.

Methot landed on an overpass being built as an approach to a new bridge over the river. The pilot suffered only minor bruises.

Col. Robert T. Kirsch, commanding officer of the 107th Fighter Wing, Air National Guard, said Methot "did admirably."

Methot is attached to the 136th Tactical Fighter Squadron, recently activated but still based at Niagara Falls Air Force Base. The 107th was the parent outfit in the National Guard.

The plane began streaming flames and smoke moments after Methot had taken off from the base, which adjoins Niagara Falls Airport.

Erke Sarkina, a carpenter working on the bridge project, said the plane passed 15 feet over his head.

"It was like a Finnish steam bath on the spot," said Sarkina, a Finn.

The four newsmen who were beaten were Dan Uhrbrock of Miami, a photographer for Life magazine; Life reporter Don Underwood of Miami; Time magazine reporter Simmons Fentriss of Atlanta and Ferd Kaufman, a photographer for the Associated Press.

Uhrbrock, Underwood and Fentriss were attacked as they left the offices of the McComb Enterprise Journal. Kaufman was hit several times in a separate incident when he left city hall.

Friday's beating was the second Uhrbrock has suffered in recent months covering racial disorders. He was attacked last spring while covering "freedom rider" violence in Montgomery, Ala.

Uhrbrock was knocked through a plate glass window Friday, but apparently was not seriously hurt.

Another newsmen ran afoul of the crowd. John Naylor, a television photographer, was shooting pictures of the crowd when someone yelled, "get that cameraman." A jeering crowd gathered around Naylor and dogged his footsteps as he walked back to city jail.

Those who were on hand simply stared at the riders.

The shouting crowd was waiting when the six Negroes—four boys and two girls—first arrived. They surged around them when they left the terminal, but did not harm them.

Police Chief George Guy had told newsmen they could go near the terminal if they wished. He warned: "We'll try to protect you but can't promise you anything."

Prior to the well-publicized arrival of the bus, police took up positions at the doors of the terminal and refused admittance to all but persons with official business.

Observers from the Justice Department also were on hand.

Mayor C. H. Douglas vowed on Thursday that the city would tolerate no further violence and would take steps to assure the carrying out of a federal court order directing that the terminal be desegregated.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am positively going out of my mind over a situation that has developed at my place of work. A woman who works with me constantly brags about her children. Abby, no matter what the topic of conversation is, she turns it back to her children. Their honors, their brilliance, their popularity, their superiority. It is affecting my work. Other people in the office feel the same way about her, but no one wants to tell her what a bore she is for fear of hurting her feelings. Is there a solution? —FED UP TO HERE

DEAR ABBY: I gave my boy friend a big colored picture of myself for Christmas last year. Now we have broken up and I would like to have my picture back. Would it be all right for me to write to him and ask him to send it back? He has no use for it. He lives 150 miles away. —JUDI

DEAR ABBY: I am in a small town and my problem is becoming so serious I think I will not have any peace of mind unless we move. We have four children and I will not mention their names, but they are now all in school. There are four other children in the same school who look so much like my children that the teachers and students are forever getting them mixed up. Two of these children (not mine) were "adopted" and the other two are children of two families with whom my husband and I have had friendships of long standing. People laugh and joke and go-sip about this "coincidence." My husband laughs, too. But to tell you the truth, Miss Van Buren, I can't hold up my head any more. —IN DOUBT

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what your husband does for a living, but whatever he does, he can do it in another town. Ask him to quit laughing and start thinking about relocating.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of this paper.

Swedes Prepare To Mass Produce Paper Blankets

STOCKHOLM — A Swedish Olof Elgenmark, head of the hospital, expressed satisfaction with Elgenmark said. Thorsten Brunius, head of the Nybholms Bruk, said, "We are planning to export these blankets to some countries, and allow them to be on the right way to solving these production problems." "We also think these blankets, sheets and pillow cases can be used for relief actions in catastrophe cases." "The method has proved to be useful for relief actions in catastrophe cases. We get away from washing and ironing and save a lot of time and money," he added. "The blankets are made of cellulose time at the Nybholms Children's hospital earlier because they were pressed together in hospital in central Sweden. Prof. these blankets make a more hygienic several layers."

MONROYANS Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Willingham, who reside at 1027 Park Avenue, have as their houseguests through Christmas Mrs. Willingham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hux, of Johnson City, Tennessee. Mrs. Hux holds newest grandson, Bradley, while conversing with her daughter, Mrs. Willingham, and elder grandson, Gary.

Evening Party Given For Bride-Elect, Miss Shirley

A bridal shower on Wednesday evening, November 29, complimented Miss Ann Shirley, bride-elect of Robert Squyres, in the home of Mrs. D. S. Norris in Bastrop. Parents of the engaged couple are Mrs. Eleanor Shirley of Bastrop and James Shirley of Jackson, Mississippi, and Mrs. Bennie Squyres and the late Mr. Squyres, of Bastrop.

The couple's wedding will be an event of December 29, in the First Methodist Church in Bastrop. A Christmas motif was used throughout the home for the party. The bride-elect was seated in a gold and red dress with a gold and red sash. The bride-elect was seated in a gold and red dress with a gold and red sash.

For the occasion Miss Shirley chose to wear a ginger wool two-piece dress with brown accessories, and a pink perfection camellia corsage. A silver coffee service was placed on an antique marble topped table, and trays of assorted foods were passed. Guests sharing the evening with Miss Shirley included Mrs. Duke Barr, Mrs. James Arthur Brown, Mrs. T. O. Files, Mrs. Allen Pomeroy, Mrs. W. C. Corley, Mrs. Mildred Brown, Mrs. L. P. Resweber, Mrs. John Sherman Crowe, Mrs. Robert Davis, Mrs. Paul Stormont of Alexandria, Mrs. Paul Pomeroy, Mrs. Margaret Larche, Mrs. Ethel Squyres of Alexandria, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. J. R. Ludlum, Mrs. Alex Pettess, Mrs. Warren Stormont, Mrs. Eleanor Shirley, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. James Miller.

Sparkle ornaments for the Christmas tree are included in one missive of Yule cheer, giving the youngsters a chance for their own tree - trimming party. The card has punch-out decorations including a peppermint stick, bell, angel, and stocking and red, gold and silver sparkle to give them extra dazle.

For the little girl, there's a card with enclosed note paper and envelopes so that she may write each person who gave her a gift a thank you note. For boys, Hallmark has a card that contains a real western wallet complete with the facing needed to put it to gether.

The "doing" in baby's first Christmas card may be on the part of the parents. The card contains all the parts necessary to put together a mobile complete with teddy bear, blocks, locomotive and snowman pictures.

Walking Santa Clauses, cowboys and dolls, as well as a perspective that children can put together, also are included in Christmas cards for children this year. A Nativity scene that children can punch out and assemble is included in another card.

ITHACA, N.Y. — For golden brown waffles at breakfast, lunch or dinner, Marion MacNab, a home economist at the New York State Extension Service at Cornell University, suggests the following rules:

- Season waffle iron properly.
- Heat to proper temperature.
- Always leave iron open while baths cooling.
- Never wash iron with water; use a stiff brush to remove baked-on batter.

Your Baby And Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Flexibility in a parent is important through all the phases of child care, whether this be feeding, sleeping or discipline.

The tiny baby has no feeding schedule, he eats when he is wide awake and crying to be fed. This feeding pattern varies from day to day and from one feeding to the next. After six weeks, or so, it may settle down to a regular 7-11-3 and 7 pattern (or 6-10-2-6) with maybe one feeding in the night.

It may also happen that for many nights the baby may sleep until morning if, perchance, he does waken, don't be afraid to feed him. He should not be allowed to fuss and cry just because he has been good enough previously to sleep all night. He'll do it again even if, for a time, he may take a night feeding again.

Obviously, children are healthier, and the routine of the household simpler when the baby graduates to three meals a day, sleeps all night and has some regular hours for the bath, nap and bedtime. But a mother should not feel that each and every day will be exactly like every other. There always are upsets in any routine, and the child is subject to them as is the mother.

VARIED

It also is better to have a routine that is varied enough — when occasion permits — to accustom the child to change. A 2-year-old whose routine has become a ritual, would do better if occasionally some other person cared for him, put him to bed, gave him his bath. Children profit by being taken on trips, sleeping in strange beds, and eating at odd hours — not as the usual thing — but some of the time.

This does not mean that the parent is careless, or does not try to have a good routine, but that she is flexible and not too fussy about details.

NOT ROUTINE

Discipline itself is not a routine matter which can be followed like rules. Whatever is said about discipline is meant as guidelines, or suggestions. The personality of the child, the parent and the individual circumstances always alter the way in which punishment is administered.

A child may, in a fit of temper, deliberately throw a vase across the room and shatter it. He may drop it accidentally while examining it curiously. He may decide to use it as a plaything and fill it with sand, take it outdoors and break it. In each case, the intent differs and so should the degree and kind of punishment.

It is good sense to follow — with in reason — a routine for feeding, sleep and discipline. But good judgment dictates when and how it may be altered to fit the individual and the circumstances. This is flexibility.

New baby on the way to your house? You'll want the informative booklet, "The First Six Months." To obtain it, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Needlework

by Laura Wheeler

Wearily of winter? Add a springtime touch with tulips, pansies, roses in swift, easy stitchery. Bright bouquets spark a kitchen scheme — new, larger-sized motifs are popular now! Smart on cloths, aprons, too. Pattern 775, four 11x13 inch motifs.

HOLIDAY BEVERAGE

NEW YORK — "Menus for Entertaining" suggests porto flip as a holiday beverage to serve before dinner. In an electric blender or a quart-size shaker, place 2 egg yolks, 1/2 cup of heavy cream, 2 cup of chilled ruby port and 1 ice cube. Add 1 teaspoon of grated nutmeg. Blend or shake until the mixture is smooth and frothy, and serve in stemmed wine glasses. Serves 4. To serve 12, make recipe 3 times.

WHETHER BOUGHT, or made, the brocade suit of jacket, flared skirt and sleeveless overblouse is this year's perfect solution to the question of what one costume will cover all holiday parties. Velvet with satin blouse, or all brocade, the suit can be made in several luxurious fabrics.

Holiday Evening Glitter This Year To Be Subdued

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Glitter, like old soldiers, never dies, but it may live away for the coming holiday. The absolute dominance of beading and sequins, which made dark glasse, a necessary accessory at a holiday party, is being seriously challenged.

Designers have sensibly asked themselves why they should take panels of blending or contrasting colors and gussy them up with layers of beads, paillettes and sequins. If a fabric is beautiful, why not let it show?

As a result, many evening dresses, whether short or long, are glitter-trimmed in traceries that follow the pattern of a print, even duplicate its colors. With chiffon, a low flare ending its bias-cut bodice, with the full, floating skirt showing off the purity of the material.

For lovers of glitter, the best fashions are the fluid sheaths of beaded crepe, in gold, silver or bronze, or the magnificent brocades, so stiff with gold they can stand alone, for big balls. The beaded crepes are meant for little parties when they're short, for the parties above the waist.

The fashion trick with glitter gowns is this: the more glitter the more casual the silhouette. It's easy to overdo glitter except in those very occasional great lady gowns, so beads and sequins call for covered tops, an almost sweater look, and unfitted lines.

In dresses which avoid glitter, for example, whether of crepe or velvet or peau de soie, often go in for the long molded torso which breaks into full-gathered flounces at the thigh, or just above the knee. Long gowns like to sink all the way down to a trumpet flare below the knee.

Whatever happened to those "molded bodice, bell skirt shapes" comfortable to wear. Holiday evenings they certainly can be found, and should be gay, not spoiled by over-in some of the prettiest warp dressing in fussy clothes.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Readers: One thing is apparent—South Dakota has more loyal residents than it has grasshoppers.

All I said was, "Flat (11-year-old) Flora needs a brassiere like South Dakota needs more grasshoppers."

Irate readers from Sioux Falls, Mitchell, Pierre, Rapid City, Watertown, and Aberdeen took pen in hand, dipped it in bile and let me know that there are "no" grasshoppers in South Dakota.

The Alpha Gamma Zeta chapter of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity of Vermillion wrote: "Annie,
 Babe, this is pleasant country.
 Grasshoppers have no place in our society."

So I take it all back. The grasshopper I saw in Sioux Falls, South Dakota in 1936 (When Central High of Sioux City, Iowa, played Sioux Falls Central) was undoubtedly a foreigner who was born in Iowa and hopped across the state line to live it up.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is being written by two girls who love their boss. Please don't get any wrong ideas. I'm happily married and so is the other gal.
 The boss is in his late 50's. He is kind and considerate and we adore him.

This is the problem: He's a man of means but to look at him you would think he was down and out.
 His suits are threadbare (both of them) and his shirts are frayed.
 He's been wearing the same pair of shoes for two years.

His wife passed away five years ago and we think perhaps she picked out his clothing and he never changed it.

Well, Ann, I failed. The child stole money from her teacher's purse, and even went so far as to take off her clothes on the public bus. When she beat up my daughter I told my husband that I had failed and the girl must be returned to her grandmother.

You were right. It takes saintly patience and genuine love to lead such a sick child back to normalcy. I didn't have it. —IN SYM-cause the crowd does? If so, resend for "Ann Landers" book, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.
 Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For two years I worked hard to make her feel loved and wanted.
 I took her to a psychiatrist every week and offered to accept therapy myself, but I was told I didn't need it.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS

United Press International
 "The struggle of today is not altogether for today — it is for the vast future also," President Lincoln told Congress in his State of the Union message to the regular session December 3, 1861.
 Here in one paragraph of an otherwise undistinguished public document, Lincoln caught something of the sweep of the Civil War, the sweep he later would spell out in the majestic language of the Second Inaugural.

It was one of the few optimistic notes in the message. Lincoln had little to be optimistic about this gloomy December but he made the most of what he had.

Western Virginia, he reported, now was dominated by its own Union people after a summer of bloody fighting. (This territory later would become the Union state of West Virginia.)

A small force on the Eastern Shore of Virginia had laid down its arms.

The Navy had seized two footholds on the Confederacy's east coast at Hatteras and Port Royal.
 Sound.

Not much progress to report in a war that was nearly eight months old but Lincoln summed it up:

"This leaves no armed insurrection north of the Potomac or east of the Chesapeake."

The territory Lincoln spoke of as having been cleared of rebellion was insignificant in comparison to the whole Confederacy.
 It still uninvaded except for a bite in northern Virginia and the two beachheads on the Atlantic coast.

The war was costing $1.5-million a day but Lincoln reported the "expenditures . . . are not beyond the resources of the loyal people."

Yet Secretary of Treasury Salmon P. Chase was uneasy. Banks were considering suspending payment in gold and silver.

Lincoln sounded another note, not as optimistic as his prose indicated.

"Kentucky, for some time in doubt, is now decidedly, and I think, unchangeably, ranged on the side of the Union," he wrote.

This was important, for Kentucky was the key to the war in the West. The Federal army held only the northern part of the state. The Confederates were fortifying the southern part. Kentucky still could go either way.

Lincoln touched not at all on the Trent case, which was raging at its height, with Great Britain demanding not only the return of James Mason and John S. Sill-dill.

Confederate emissaries removed from a British ship by a U. S.
 naval captain, but also an apology for the act. It was the President's biggest problem at the moment. War against Britain seemed a distinct possibility.

Perhaps Lincoln hoped this generalized paragraph on foreign policy would help calm the passions:

"I venture to hope it will appear that we have practised prudence and liberality toward foreign powers, averting irritation and with firmness maintaining our rights and honor."

Both angry British and Americans could read something into that.

Lincoln handled the ticklish issue of slavery briefly, legalistically and cautiously:

"In considering the policy to be adopted for suppressing the insurrection, I have been anxious and careful that the inevitable conflict for this purpose shall not degenerate into a violent and regressive revolutionary struggle."

I have, therefore, in every case, thought it proper to keep the integrity of the Union prominent as the primary object of the contest on our part . . . We should not be in haste to determine that rational and extreme measures . . .
 are indispensable.

He was not ready to free the slaves, despite the growing agitation among the Radical Republicans and Abolitionists. First he would try out a plan for the government to buy the slaves in Delaware, free them and colonize them in another country. He drew up a model bill for the purpose.

George P. Fischer, Delaware attorney general and a Lincoln Republican, canvassed the Delaware legislature without stirring up any enthusiasm for the bill. It never passed.

For the benefit of Confederate President Jefferson Davis and his administration, Lincoln wrote into the message a treatise on popular labor and capital in popular government.

When Memphis, Tenn., was occupied in 1862 by Union forces, a telegraph operator fled but left
 this note:

"I leave this office to any Lincolnite successor, and will state
 that, although you can whip us on the water, if you will come out on land we'll whip you like Hell."

Next Week in The Civil War

hinted at as a possible refuge from the power of the people.
 Of popular government, he said
 "which is one point . . . which I ask a brief attention."

"It is the effort to place capital on an equal footing with, if not above, labor, in the structure of government. It is assumed that labor is available only in connection with capital; that nobody labors unless somebody else, owning capital, somehow by use of it induces him to labor . . . It is concluded that all laborers are either hired laborers or what we call slaves. And, further, it is assumed that whoever is once a hired laborer is fixed in that condition for life."

"Now, there is no such relation between capital and labor.
 Labor is prior to, and independent of, capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor, and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital, and deserves much the higher consideration. Capital has its rights, which are as worthy of protection as any other rights."

One of those who read these words at the time was Karl Marx.
 He wrote that the Civil War was a struggle between slavery and free labor.

Malaria struck many Union soldiers when they invaded the South in the Civil War. The standard infantry weapon for both sides was the rifle musket, generally of 58 caliber (slightly over a half inch). It was a muzzle-loading weapon and used paper cartridges containing a charge of powder and a bullet, usually a Minie ball.

Federal soldiers during the siege of Atlanta were troubled by scurvy on account of their diet of hardtack, coffee and salt pork.
 They soon found out they could cure their scurvy by making tea from the roots of sassafras trees which abounded in the area.

When Memphis, Tenn., was occupied in 1862 by Union forces, a telegraph operator fled but left
 this note:

"I leave this office to any Lincolnite successor, and will state
 that, although you can whip us
 on the water, if you will come out on land we'll whip you like Hell."

Screams Greet Candidate On LSU Campus

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A student newspaper said Friday "red-faced screaming" broke up a Louisiana State University campus meeting here at which a candidate for the U.S. Senate spoke.

The Daily Reveille said the screaming between retired Lt. Col. Phil A. St. Amant and students developed when the candidate "evaded questions with counter questions to the audience."

The newspaper said about 100 students attended the meeting sponsored by the "Students For Conservative Government," about half of them liberals.

St. Amant, a 1939 graduate of LSU who retired from the Army in 1959 after 20 years of commissioned service, told the students he had no doubt he would defeat U.S. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., in the Louisiana senatorial race.

St. Amant denounced what he called "red Harvard beats" and "the crimson tide that has taken over Washington."

Liberals, he said, is for young inexperienced people and old people who have nothing to conserve.

"Just because the declaration of independence said that all men are created equal," he said, "it is not so." The races are not equal, he said, and a decision by the Supreme Court could not make them so.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

CRAWLING SKIN

From time to time we receive from readers a bottle or box containing bits of lint, dead skin, or other debris. These persons write that the enclosures were rubbed off or dug out from under the skin. Occasionally, the bottle is filled with ants or other insects. No wonder my secretaries are a bit squeamish about opening small containers.

Parasitosis is a delusion that live organisms such as insects or mites are present in or under the skin. These individuals use various agents to extract their imaginary parasites: finger nails, scissors, tweezers, knives, or pins. Others apply strong antiseptics or insecticides.

The ensuing mutilation may leave scars that are especially ugly on the exposed parts of the body. The wounds heal slowly, particularly when they are irritated constantly or become infected.

It is understandable how some oldersters acquire this delusion. The aging skin is dry which leads to itching. The victim cannot understand what is wrong because the skin looks normal. he concludes that a mite or other insect has gone underground. Scratching fails to relieve distress. Other patients with parasitosis have an ordinary mental disorder but instead of hearing voices or seeing imaginary people or animals, they are convinced there are ants or beetles under the skin.

Now and then a phobia is responsible. These people have an abnormal fear of contamination and can't be convinced that the crawling sensation is not due to bug infestation. They even recognize the irrational nature of their fears but can do nothing about it.

Physicians learned centuries ago to go through the process of examining these patients in search for the crawlers. Occasionally the skin is infested with lice or mites. But in general, the basic cause of parasitosis is an emotional disturbance.

WAITRESS' ARCHES

A waitress I met in a restaurant in my early forties and a bit heavy I have a bad case of fallen arches and some days get so tired I can't attend to my work properly and this affects my pay check. I wear good shoes with low heels and have taken foot treatments but relief doesn't last long. Is there any way I can be helped?

If your arches are the cause of your fatigue, relief can be obtained with proper shoes and arch supports. This may require specialist. Meanwhile, lose weight and try to improve the strength of the arches with foot exercises. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on flat feet.

LIVER ENLARGEMENT

M. S. writes: Is an enlarged liver the same as cirrhosis of the liver?

Cirrhosis is one cause of enlargement of the liver. A thorough examination and laboratory tests will be needed to determine the origin of this condition.

TIRED LEGS

F. G. writes: What would help calf and foot fatigue?

Muscle conditioning is most helpful when the individual lacks physical fitness and is otherwise healthy. In older persons, the circulation must be improved.

DON'T BLAME ULCER

G. P. writes: I have had a duodenal ulcer for 1 1/2 years and now have a discharge from the navel. Could the ulcer cause the oozing?

No. Nothing new has been added.

HEALED DRUM

D. P. writes: How long after a ruptured eardrum has healed is swimming permissible?

Immediately, but be sure healing has occurred.

Baton Rouge Report Soon On Finances

BATON ROUGE, AP—Gov. Jimmie H. Davis is expected to make public his reappraisal of the state's financial condition late next week.

A source in the governor's office said Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily, the governor's chief fiscal officer, has just completed research for the report.

The governor's report may take the form of a white paper explanation, or a statewide telecast.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

A national weekly magazine is "researching" New York's fabulous charity balls, trying to find out what percentage of the ticketbuyer's dollar actually goes to the good causes, versus how much is spent on food, lavish decorations, entertainment, and the people who "organize" the parties for a hefty percentage. They head of the New York Racing Association when John Hanes leaves the position of Barbra (she committee members for a recent gala were offering last-minute tickets at half-price, and when there were no takers, they gave away thousands of dollars worth of free tickets just to get the people to fill up the tables).

Those who were present at the Camelot when Keely Smith decided to do a Twist to end all Twists won't soon forget it. The viewers seemed evenly divided between those who wanted to see more of the singer and those who thought it was a bit too much. Edith Piaf's great interest at the moment is a gaunt English songwriter, Yann Dallas, who has been her house guest for some time. Piaf's French friends say his friendship has helped her more than any miracle drug. Those who've seen rushes of "Five Finger Exercises" predict Rosalind Russell's performance will win an Oscar nomination.

Joe DiMaggio, without a blinding sight, celebrated his 41st birthday with George Solotareff at the Cafe Pompeii. Mort Sahl's small role in "Advise and Consent" wound up on the cutting room floor. Many of the top members of the Jockey Club are trying to talk Alfred Gwynne.

12 TRAPPED IN TUNNEL

AOMORI, Japan (AP)—Twelve Japanese workers building a railway tunnel were trapped by a cave-in near here Friday but police reported all were safe. Food and water was being sent into them through a six-inch pipe as rescue workers dug to free them.

Testing Your Horse Sense

Score one point for a correct solution of each of the first five problems. The last problem counts five points. Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-4, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior.

1. Which one of these names is inappropriate in this general grouping? Stalin, Disraeli, Khrushchev, Marx.

2. The sound "Quack" is most suggestive of which one of these terms? Snare, Bait, Trap, Blind.

3. Which one of these scientific terms is most suggestive of Ireland? Chlorophyll, Plasma, Hemoglobin, Insulin.

4. A shotgun is most suggestive of which one of these group names? Bevy, Drove, Squad, Covey.

5. Which one of these terms indicates the largest number? Score, Fathom, Brace, Decade.

6. In the left hand column below you will find the names of five men who are engaged in the various types of work indicated in the right hand column. Try to match them appropriately. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

(a) Drove (b) Barrel maker (c) Collier (d) Cattle dealer (e) Cooper (f) Gambler (g) Draper (h) Coal miner (i) Croupier (j) Dry goods merchant.

ANSWERS

1. Disraeli (British Prime Minister). 2. Blind (For duck hunting). 3. Chlorophyll (Green). 4. Covey (Quail). 5. Score (20). 6. (a) Drove-Cattle (b) Collier-Miner (c) Cooper-Barrel (d) Draper-Dry goods (e) Croupier-Gambler.

Prize Winning Physicist Gets Medal, $50,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Hans A. Bethe, Cornell University physicist, received congratulations, a gold medal, and a check for $50,000 from President Kennedy Friday as the 1961 winner of the Enrico Fermi prize.

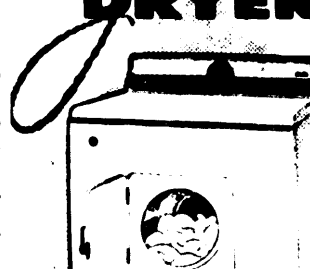

The prize is awarded annually in recognition of outstanding contributions in the field of nuclear and theoretical physics.

The citation said Bethe received this year's award for "contributions to nuclear and theoretical physics, to the peaceful uses of atomic energy, and to the security of the United States."

His selection for the award was announced last June.

Dry Clothes Faster... More Economically in a MAYTAG

Gas DRYER

MODEL DG 701

MAYTAG Electronic Control DRYER

Clothes need less ironing because wrinkles are never baked in. Seven moisture sensitive fingers constantly "test" the clothes as they tumble through the Maytag drying chamber. When they feel just right, dry but not stiff and harsh, the electronic control turns off the heat.

Little Cheer In Clague's Sweet Talk

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is a certain element of bombast in the administration's brush-off of the latest hike in the high cost of living.

HCL is a grouping of letters that will be familiar to Americans old enough to remember World War I. And to remember the sky-high prices that came along thereafter as the United States entered upon a binge of currency inflation.

Everyone was blasting the high cost of living back there in the early 1920s and demanding that something be done about it. The depression came along and did plenty. Apples were back to two-for-a-nickel and you could buy them from the jobless on any street corner.

Now we are in another high cost of living cycle. The Labor Department's consumer price index rose to a record high in October. Ewan Clague is the commissioner of labor statistics. He frosted the bad news with some sweet talk but he didn't talk long enough to tell the whole story.

WRONG WAY PROGRESS
Commissioner Clague said the October index hike was only one-tenth of one per cent. That isn't much, although the new price index figure was a record-breaker. Moreover, the commissioner said the price increase in a whole year had been only nine-tenths of one per cent. That isn't much either, but it is progress in the wrong direction.

Through his rose-colored glasses, Commissioner Clague said some real good news in the shameful situation which finds the U. S. dollar steadily being rotted by its purchasing power toward a vanishing point where someday it won't buy a five-cent cigar.

What pleased the commissioner was that the spendable income of factory workers—and their buying power—had increased in October to record levels.

The typical production worker—with three dependents—earned $84.12 in take-home pay in October, up $1.80 since September Clague said.

This represents a real rise in the standard of living of the average factory worker.

This is mighty nice for the factory worker, but what of the commissioner's other fellow citizens? What about the working stiff who does something else? What about the thrifty fellow who has been saving his money in the bank and must watch it shrink in value month by month as the rotting of the dollar continues.

The pensioners, the thrifty, the fixed income working stiffs will not do much cheering for Clague's "happy times are here again."

Penney's Slates Special Yuletide Employee Pay

George F. Beckett, manager of the J. C. Penney department store here, announced yesterday a special Christmas payment for store associates.

The payment, which will include all regular associates employed on or before October 1, 1961, is being made on December 1.

All those eligible will share in the payment except management staff members who participate in the company's long-standing profit-sharing or other management incentive plans.

The payment is in addition to regular company provisions for associates' benefits including sick benefits, hospital and surgical insurance plan, noncontributory group life insurance, Penco Profit-Sharing Retirement Plan, discounts on purchases and others.

Rate Reduction Is Scheduled On Natural Gas

Natural gas rates are being reduced in the Monroe district starting Dec. 9, according to the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

Most of the Monroe area, excluding Monroe proper, will be affected by the reduction.

A minimum monthly bill of $1.25 for the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas used is provided for in the new rate.

The rate will be 45 cents per thousand and for the next 29,000 cubic feet and 40 cents for any over that.

Mickey Nichols New Sweetheart

RUSTON (Special)—Mickey Nichols of Shreveport, a senior in business education at Louisiana Tech, has been chosen as the Sweetheart of the O'Donnell Squadron of the Arnold Air Society.

As an AF ROC sponsor for two years and captain of the girls' rifle team for two years, Miss Nichols has taken an active part in the activities of the cadet corps at Louisiana Tech. She was top scorer on the girls' rifle team of two of her three years of membership.

She has also been senior women's representative on the Student Senate and vice president of the Alpha Chi Omega society.

Judge Denies New Trial In Narcotics Case

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A federal judge Friday denied a new trial for Ben Johnson, former used car dealer serving 10 years on a narcotics charge.

Judge E. Gordon West, who Nov. 17 denied Johnson a writ of habeas corpus, handed down a ruling in Johnson's latest attempt to gain freedom from Louisiana state prison.

Counsel for Johnson was unavailable for immediate comment whether he would appeal the case, which has been in the courts seven years.

Johnson once was called the vice lord of south Louisiana by state authorities.

He was arrested by state police in 1954 on a narcotics charge after officers stopped and searched his car. Johnson has charged he was "framed" by testimony given in court.

The defense based the new move for freedom on a U. S. Supreme Court ruling in an Ohio case concerning illegal search and seizure.

What British Newspapers Print Of U.S.

By HARRY FERGUSON
LONDON (UPI)—Seeking ourselves as others see us: Verbatim extracts from British newspapers about life in the United States this week.

New York—Nobody in the great democracy of the United States working man. Everyone has to have a title. So the road sweeper is a "surface maintenance specialist" and the dust man (trash collector) a "sanitation engineer."

Doormen in big apartment blocks are calling themselves "family service supervisors." I am a newspaper man, but neighbors insist on introducing me at cocktail parties as a "news media executive." Today the "personal grooming foremen" are complaining that their social services are not sufficiently appreciated by the public. Well, if they only would go back to calling themselves "washroom attendants" we might know where we stood and start tipping them again.

Hollywood—Frank Sinatra has been asked officially to "tone down" his public displays of affinity to President Kennedy and the administration. It is said that in conversation Sinatra calls Mr. Kennedy "Prez."

New York—In spite of the outraged protests of the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, one of the best sellers for Christmas is a toy bar. It consists of a battery operated bartender whose ears below smoke and who quaffs the cocktails he mixes. Cost: One pound, eight shillings, five pence ($3.98). Texas shops were one better by offering a toy cocktail bar with two stools marked "Mommy" and "Daddy" at the Texas-sized price of 23 pounds, four shillings ($64.96).

Kansas City—Oren Gamble held the police at bay for two hours with two guns when they tried to arrest him. Beside him were 12 other loaded guns. The cops called his mother and she eyed Oren sternly and commanded: "Put those things down, Junior, and don't be silly." Oren obeyed instantly and surrendered.

Cambridge, Mass.—More psychiatrists are in America than in the whole of Europe and they never seem to stop lecturing and hectoring the wretched U. S. public on its code of social behavior.

Dr. Gerald Caplan, Harvard University, tells American men never to pull the leg of an expectant father. He said: "You are undermining his inherent role as a father figure, planting built-in seeds of hostility and jealousy toward the unborn child and making him feel inferior to his wife. It could lead to disaster."

Pictures printed this week: Negro track star Wilma Rudolph (her secret marriage was revealed). British actor Robert Bolt (his play "A Man For All Seasons" is a smash hit on Broadway). Blanche Thebom, Metropolitan Opera singer (she is going to marry a surgeon). Enos the chimp (he orbited the earth). Movie actress Janet Leigh (she has just returned from a Latin American tour in behalf of the State Department).

FPC Official Gives Views On Rates For Gas

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UPI)—A Federal Power Commissioner said Friday natural gas consumers were entitled to the lowest reasonable rates, but not to the lowest possible rates.

The difference between the two provides capital for industry expansion.

Commissioner L. J. O'Connor Jr., made the statements in remarks prepared for delivery to an Oklahoma Bar Association meeting.

O'Connor also defended regulation of well-head gas prices. He said it would be "difficult if not impossible" to regulate pipelines and distribution company prices.

producers were not also regulated.

The commissioner said an increasing demand and dependence of consumers on natural gas plus competition among pipelines for supplies creates "a situation which, unregulated, would lead to ever increasing prices."

Pair Hunted In LaSalle Armed Theft

OLLA (Special) — Two men wanted for armed robbery of a service station manager in Olla Thursday are being sought by the LaSalle Parish sheriff's department.

When last seen, the two were driving a 1959 two-tone car bearing an Arkansas license 49950.

According to Marvin Baum, vice president of the service station, the robbery, one of the men walked into the Masters City Service Station to pay for a tank of gasoline, but instead pulled a country

First Woman To Begin Sea Naval Duty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A shapely, hazel-eyed brunette, the first woman ever assigned to sea duty as a line officer of the U.S. Navy, is all set to begin an 18-month Pacific cruise. However, she won't be the only woman aboard ship. There will be two nurses and some women passengers.
